Lisbon Area Crash Hurts Trucker, 19

4 Drivers Arrested By State Patrol In Weekend Mishaps

No one was injured seriously although four motorists were cited for traffic violations as the result of seven accidents investigated over the weekend by the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Richard Carl Russell, 19, of Lisbon R. D. 5 suffered contusions and abrasions of the lower back when his pickup truck crashed Sunday at 2:45 a. m. on Route 45 about two and a half miles north of Lisbon.

Russell apparently fell asleep, officers said. The truck went off the right side of the highway, crossed over to the left side and then overturned. He was treated at Salem City Hospital.

A northbound car driven by Martha Ann, 50, of 432 S. Main St., Columbiana, plunged over an embankment on Route 170 at Pancake Hill Sunday afternoon at 2. The car went off the right side of the highway, crossed over to the left and then overturned down the embankment, officers said.

A Wellsville man was cited as the result of a three-car crash on

40 Arrested During Riots In Belgium

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Police held 40 persons today after thousands of Flemish-speaking Belgians swarmed into Brussels and clashed with French-speaking Walloons they accused of "subjugating" them.

Members of both groups were taken into custody as a result of Sunday's outbreaks that injured about 20 persons. Counterdemonstrations by Walloons continued far into the night.

The race-and-language rivalry goes back 132 years to Belgian independence. Although the Flemings now have a majority in parliament, they claim discrimination continues, especially in Brussels. Officials estimated 25,000 to 50,000 Flemings from northern Belgium invaded the capital to stage a protest march. Their sweep across the city had scarcely begun before they crashed into Walloon counterdemonstrators.

The crowds pelted each other with rotten eggs, tomatoes, insults and jeers. The injured were hurt by sticks, staves and thunderflashes, a kind of firecracker that can burn severely. Only two of the injured required hospitalization, however.

6 Questioned On Sinking Of Cuban Boat

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Six men described by the Coast Guard as raiders who sank a Cuban patrol boat and rescued two wounded Cuban militiamen east of Havana are being questioned by immigration authorities.

The unidentified men were taken to Key West by a Coast Guard boat from the British island of Cay Sal Sunday night. They had sought refuge at Cay Sal after the raid. Newsmen were not allowed to talk to them.

The two militiamen were flown from the tiny island off the southeast Florida coast to Miami by Coast Guard helicopter. They were listed in fair condition at a hospital after surgery for bullet wounds.

District Immigration Director Edward Ahrens said one of the two, Sgt. Filiberto Suarez Lima, 40, asked for asylum in the United States. The other man was identified as Cpl. Miguel Cao Medina, about 30.

Ahrens said the two told immigration officers they and two other military men were on patrol duty in an 18-foot boat Friday night, off Varadero Beach, east of Havana.

Cao and Suarez said a larger boat opened fire on them, sinking their vessel and wounding Cao in the groin and Suarez in the leg. The patrol boat sank, and men on the larger boat lifted the two militiamen from the water. The other two men were swimming to shore when last seen, Suarez said.

35 See Colorful, Historic Beaver Creek Park Area

The Beaver Creek State Forest Park demurely put its best foot forward in bright autumn dress Saturday for a tour sponsored by the Columbiana County Forest and Parks Council, aimed at explaining to district candidates for the General Assembly the need for additional appropriations to expand the scenic and recreation area.

Thirty-five joined in the tour, including legislative candidates from Columbiana and Mahoning Counties. The group toured an area resplendent in autumn colors and replete with history.

Present features of the park and a projected 20,000-acre area were explained by Atty. Donald W. Elliott, the council chairman; Steve M. Barborak, vice chairman, and Floyd Lower, secretary-treasurer. They were aided by Heber Lessig of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, H. B. Barth, curator of the East Liverpool Historical Society Museum, and Roy

Jury Probe Ordered In Liquor Bribe

Governor Directs McElroy To Obtain Grand Jury Review

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. Michael V. DiSalle directed Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy to go ahead and impanel a special grand jury today for a look into liquor department influence peddling charges.

The governor said he hopes to name a widely known Republican attorney during the day to serve as special counsel for the investigation.

DiSalle said several attorneys turned down his request to make the inquiry. In event of another refusal, the governor said McElroy, also a Democrat, would handle the case.

An out-of-state court action today has an important bearing on the Ohio investigation.

In Chicago, the star witness in the case, Joseph Makler, president of Waterfall & Frazier Distillers, has been ordered to appear before Chief Justice John Boyle of Cook County (Ill.) Criminal Court.

Makler, who claims he was obliged to pay agents outside the Liquor Department to get his whisky listed in Ohio's state stores, has not been seen since the allegations were made public late last month. Makler's secretary reports he is on a vacation.

Bonn Given Determined Assurances

Access Rights Due Protection Should Reds Press Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has assured West Germany that it is determined to maintain the right of civilian as well as military access to West Berlin against any new Soviet attempt to isolate the city.

U.S. policy on this point is understood to have been stated emphatically to West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder, who began strategy talks with Secretary of State Dean Rusk here Sunday.

Schroeder will be followed to Washington Nov. 7 by West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer who wants to discuss the Berlin situation with President Kennedy in advance of a possible Kennedy meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev concerning Berlin.

Kennedy, Rusk and other Western leaders believe that Khrushchev is planning some new action which may precipitate a fresh Berlin crisis before the end of the year. American officials see a 50-50 chance that before taking any decisive step, however, the Soviet leader may come to the U.N. General Assembly meeting in New York and also confer with Kennedy in the hope of winning Western concessions on Berlin.

If the Russians do launch an intensified campaign against the Western position in Berlin, the point of attack may well be the surface and air lifeline across East Germany linking the city with West Germany. The U.S. policy decision on civilian right of access, therefore, is considered of vital importance, for it implies that this country and its allies have decided they will not tolerate Communist blockade measures.

Western diplomats say it is expected that the East Germans will shortly institute some regulation requiring regular diplomatic visas for civilians crossing East German territory to the Western sector of Berlin. This could be construed as a bid for a greater degree of Western recognition of East German authority over the supply line.

The United States, Britain and France maintain their position in Berlin and their access to the city as a right of occupation resulting from World War II.

$12,199 Given Community Fund So Far

Cash gifts totalling $12,199.43 were listed in the first week's report of the Community Fund campaign which was launched last Monday.

Representing better than 15 per cent of the campaign goal of $80,000, most of the gifts have been mailed into the drive headquarters at the YMCA by individuals in the various professions or those who are self-employed or in small businesses, in response to an advance letter - canvass.

Approximately 700 individuals remaining on this list will be contacted personally by four teams of volunteer - workers who received their assignment during a series of meetings last week.

Richard Emmerling and Frank C. Dawson, campaign co-chairmen, today emphasized that "the success of the procedure set up for this year's drive depends entirely on the willingness of the donor to co-operate. All divisions, are stressing the theme, "Give now! willingly, Give voluntarily, Give now!"

Most of the area's larger industrial or business firms are just getting started this week on their

Hopes Grow For Solution On Katanga

Stevenson Reports On U.N. Actions To President Kennedy

NEW YORK (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson, U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, has told President Kennedy that developments of the past few days "give us some hope of a solution of the problems in the Congo."

Stevenson said Sunday night, after an hour-long conference with the President in the latter's hotel suite here, that he also spoke with Kennedy about the Cuban problem.

Asked if his report on the Communist-dominated Fidel Castro government was as optimistic as the one he made on the Congo, the ambassador replied:

"On the whole, yes. I think we have a high degree of solidarity in the Western Hemisphere on the Cuban problem."

But he said he had not talked with Kennedy about attempts to negotiate the release of Cuban invasion captives because he, Stevenson, knew nothing about it.

Regarding the Congo, Stevenson indicated he expects acting U.N. Secretary-General U Thant to announce soon what has been done to bring secessionist Katanga Province back into line with the central Leopoldville government.

Earlier, Stevenson told reporters at Idlewild Airport, where he met the incoming President, that he was "more hopeful than I have been in the past that we may come to some settlement in the Congo."

Stevenson said he had had rather lengthy conversations with Algeria's Premier Ahmed Ben Bella, but declined to say what the talks were about.

Ben Bella was scheduled to meet with Kennedy today in Washington.

Aliquippa Woman, 62, Killed In Car Mishap

ALIQUIPPA — Mrs. Mary Smerigan, 62, of Aliquippa was dead on arrival at Aliquippa Hospital Sunday at 4:15 after an auto accident on Route 151 six miles west of here.

Mrs. Smerigan was a passenger in a car driven by her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Trenalli, 37, also of Aliquippa, which struck a steel guardrail.

Mrs. Trenalli suffered a fractured ankle. She is in "satisfactory" condition today at the hospital. Her son, Gary, 10, and Paul Sells, 14, also of Aliquippa, were injured slightly.

West Coast Mops Up From Storms

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The West Coast from San Francisco to British Columbia mopped up today after hurricane winds and torrential downpours left at least 47 dead and scores homeless in one of the vast area's worst storms of the century.

Damage amounted to uncounted millions in northern California and western Oregon, Washington and British Columbia. Not even a rough estimate of the total loss could be tabulated.

Parts of major cities and many small towns in the 75,000-square-mile storm area still were without telephone service. Emergency phone crews were flown into the area in chartered planes to patch the lines today.

The storm, whiplash tail of two dying Pacific typhoons, struck the coast Thursday night, battering Oregon the hardest. It lost its punch Sunday as it moved inland and ran up against the Rocky Mountains.

The job ahead: Caring for the homeless, more than 150 families in Oregon alone. Restoring broken gas lines, power lines and telephone service. Clearing sewers, streets and highways of storm debris — tons of mud, windblown trees, shattered billboards and signposts. Shoring up sliding houses, shoveling silt out of others.

Oregon's Gov. Mark Hatfield estimated storm losses in his state at more than $150 million.

Property damage estimates for British Columbia ran as high as $1 million.

No tally had been made of the loss in Washington or California but it was expected to reach into the millions.

Oakland, Calif., was cut off for hours Saturday by flood waters choking streets and highways in the city. Emergency crews had opened all thoroughfares today except a main access tunnel to the east. A mud slide had knocked out the tunnel's ventilating and signal systems and it may be closed until Wednesday.

State Official Will Talk

Mayor Will Snip Ribbon For Freeway Dedication

The symbolic snipping of a ribbon Wednesday morning at 10:30 by Mayor Bert H. Goodballet will feature the dedication of the West End - California Hollow Freeway, a four-lane improvement representing a $6 million investment and nearly two years of work.

City, county, state and federal officials will take part in the program, arranged by the Chamber of Commerce. A noon luncheon and program will follow at the Travelers Hotel.

PRINCIPAL speaker at the dedication will be Ralph J. Lehman of Columbus, administrator of metropolitan freeways for the State Highway Department.

His address will come near the end of the program, shortly before Mayor Goodballet snips the ribbon to open the highway officially.

The ceremonies will be held on the freeway bridge that spans the East Liverpool - Wellsville Rd. in the West End interchange area. The Chamber emphasized that the public is invited to the dedication ceremonies. Souvenir programs will be distributed.

Brief remarks are scheduled by Galen Greenisen, chairman of county commissioners; William P. McKenna, head of the Highway Department's Division 11 office in New Philadelphia, and Robert S. Johnson of Columbus, division engineer for the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

Presiding will be Atty. Francis H. Lang, chairman of the Chamber highway committee, which arranged the program in co-operation with the city and the highway department.

He also is immediate past president of the Lake Erie - Ohio River Highway Association, a four-county group organized in 1958 to promote construction of a four-lane limited access road to connect the Ohio River and Lake Erie. The East Liverpool project is the southern terminus

Kennedy Gets Rest Before Another Trip

President Pleased By Large Turnouts In Campaign Drive

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy catches his campaign breath for the next two days, then dashes off through eight states in another fire-bulldozing mission for 1962.

Kennedy landed in Washington early this morning from New York, where he had summoned U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson to an hour's huddle on international objectives, after barnstorming five states on political objectives in November congressional and state elections.

Sprinting through New York, northern New Jersey, western Pennsylvania, Indianapolis, Louisville and Buffalo in the last three days, Kennedy demonstrated:

He is primarily interested in turning out a big vote on Nov. 6. He said in a television interview (ABC) that competition on the stump from former President Dwight D. Eisenhower—while Eisenhower's speeches "may not be so helpful," as he put it — will help arouse the electorate. Democrats outnumber Republicans in registration, he said, but Democrats "don't do so well" in pouring out on election day.

He's willing to endorse a Republican, as he did in Louisville. John Sherman Cooper, one of Kentucky's two GOP senators, rated a "distinguished" credit from Kennedy in the course of an attack on Sen. Thurston B. Morton, former Republican national chairman, and support for Wilson W. Wyatt, the Democrat challenging Morton's bid for reelection.

Solon Youth, 13, Hurt In Mishap With Pistol

LISBON — An 18-year-old Solon youth is in "good" condition today at Alliance City Hospital with an accidental gunshot wound suffered Sunday morning, Sheriff Russell J. VanFossen reported.

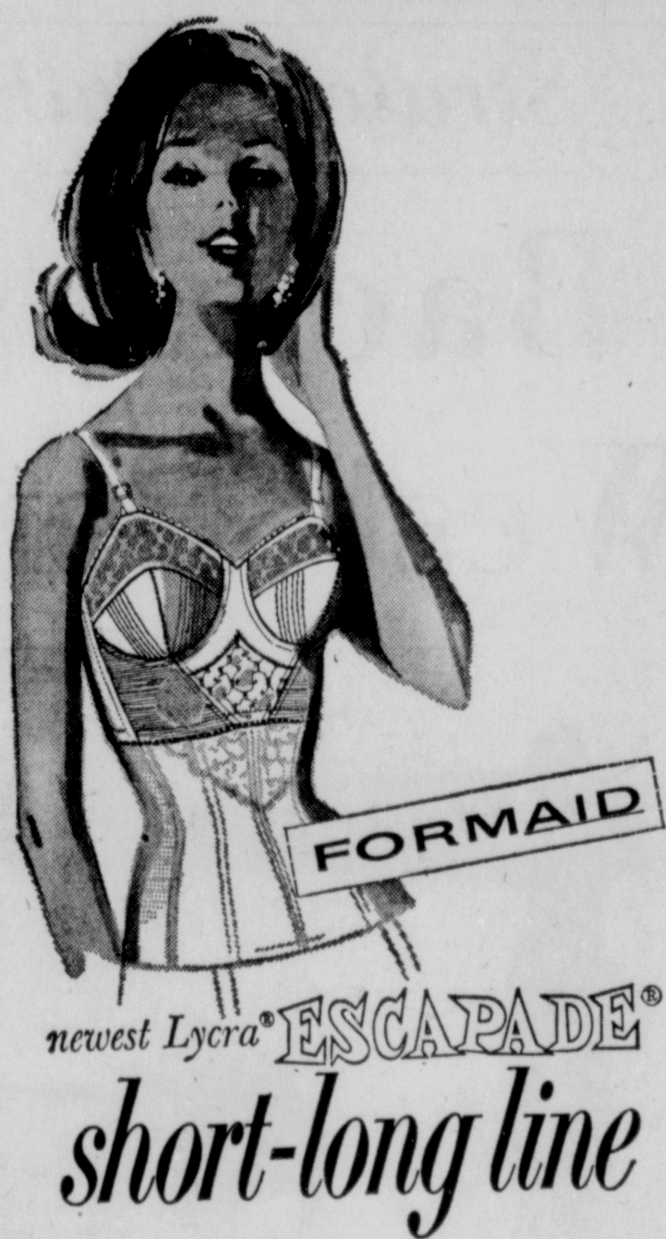

John Hager was shot through the left hand, with the bullet lodging in his right leg. The sheriff's office said he was shot by accident by his cousin, Eugene Prendergast, 13, of Mobley Rd. in West Township, as the two boys were target shooting.

Hager told Deputy Howard Gray that Prendergast was loading a .22 caliber pistol when it discharged by accident. Hager is scheduled for surgery today for removal of the bullet.

Edmund Sargus, who represents the 20th-22nd District; Rep. Thomas P. Gilmartin of Mahoning County, and Robert Merz, president of the Mahoning County Federation of Sportsmen.

Roads about the area are only passable and few get in to see many of the scenic and historic spots. The Pennsylvania Railroad has a right-of-way along the Little Beaver which conceivably could provide an excellent beginning for expansion of the present park area, Sargus said.

Local interests are stirring for the restoration of the 1837 Gaston Mill already in the park area. Wild turkey has been introduced in the park area by game organizations and other wildlife, including deer, appears to be abundant. Native hemlock and other evergreens as well as deciduous trees, now in many colors, make the area one of the most beautiful in natural scenery of all Ohio.

The park council is anxious that the Ohio Department of Natural Resources continue efforts to expand the park and for this legislative appropriations are necessary.

Lower and others pointed out that state park and forest areas are extremely limited in populous Northeastern Ohio and that the sites are few to meet the rising need for camper and visitor accommodations.

County's Principals Hear State Executive

The state teachers retirement system was described as one of the best by Roy Marine, an administrative assistant in the Columbus office, when he discussed the program at a meeting of the Columbiana County Elementary Principals Association Thursday night at Westgate School.

The meeting was preceded by a dinner in the school cafeteria.

Ocean-Spanning Criticism

Reading reports of the opening sessions of the British Conservative party's annual conference is like a dream about transplanted political issues.

If the names were changed, the conservative speeches could be made in political meetings here in the United States. Though the Conservatives now are in power, they are saying to each other what their Labour and Liberal critics are saying. The message was delivered at the outset of the conference when a speaker addressed himself sternly to the chancellor of the exchequer, Reginald Maudling. "Quit dawdling, Maudling!" he shouted.

In Britain as everywhere else, except Japan and the Common Market countries, where the business rate has been climbing spectacularly thanks to government policies that encourage expansion, the tone of criticism is the same—that the rate of growth isn't large enough to satisfy the wants of the people.

This was the issue in the 1960 national campaign in the United States. It is the issue this year, and it will be the issue in 1964. It is the issue in Canada. Whether they are local, state or national, politicians are making political capital of agitating doubts about the ability of the party in power to stimulate the economy.

Everything must go faster to stay where it is, and if it is to advance it must go twice that fast. Yet nobody knows what to do. Not that it helps to know the problem is widespread, at least no more than it would help to know who else had a broken leg. But at least it dispels self pity.

"Stop dawdling, Maudling!"
Or as we might say it here:
"Why move back, Jack?"

If No Blow Were Struck

A Berlin crisis in November is as certain as Election Day and Thanksgiving.

Premier Khrushchev has done everything but blueprint his next move, which will be a peace treaty with East Germany wiping out the "legal" right of the Western Allies to occupy their sectors in West Berlin.

This, according to the speculators who always think of each Berlin crisis as a casus belli, would start the nuclear blasting and World War III would be full-fledged.

It is just as reasonable, however, to believe that Khrushchev and his advisers are trying as hard to keep from finding a casus belli in Berlin as the Western Allies have been. War is the last thing the Allies want, and it may be the last thing the Soviet Union wants.

Infinitely more useful than war is a talking point—a means of keeping the opposition off balance. That has been the function of Berlin for both sides since the end of World War II.

If the Soviet Union made a peace treaty with East Germany, it would have scored a point in its game of "one-upmanship" with the Western Allies. It would have put itself into a position to claim the Allies were staying in West Berlin on the sufferance of the East Germans; in plain words that they had no legal basis for being there as trespassers in East German territory.

This would be infuriating to the United States and its allies. But they would be unable to do anything about it because no blow would have been struck, except on paper. It would be the typical move of experts in Marxist dialectics, who learn at their preceptor's knee how to drive an opponent out of his mind by endless argumentation proving nothing but the skill of the dialecticians.

Film Gets In Our Eyes

A minor misunderstanding about a photographer's right to take pictures of Mrs. John F. Kennedy and her children when they returned to Washington this week will be ironed out and smoothed over.

The photographer says he didn't see a sign forbidding him to be where he needed to be to get the picture he wanted, and if he sticks with the story he will be all right. It has served many a photographer well.

But what needs ironing out more than one misunderstanding about one photographer is a misunderstanding about all photographers. They have made themselves so obtrusive a detail of the American scene that no one of photographic prominence can ignore them and most of the rest of us can't ignore them either. Their fierce man-to-man competition for position in the presence of the newsworthy personalities they follow resembles nothing more than a pack of hyenas tearing at a carcass.

This is what makes it necessary sometimes to bar photographers. Their zeal can be so overwhelming it cannot be withstood. Even the editors who supposedly goad them into committing excesses get touchy about them on the rare occasions when they come into personal contact with photographers in the mass.

There is this misunderstanding about photographers. People think they must be as hard to contend with in the singular as they are in the plural. It isn't so. Photographers in the singular are no different from any of the other minorities that become unbearable in the mass. You name your own unbearable mass. Maybe it's photographers. It could be something worse.

Our Marine Expert Tells All

After days of intensive study and research the self-appointed yachting "commodore" in our office has come up with what he calls the real reason the Gretel from Australia lost to the Weatherly in the recent America's Cup races.

His explanation is so simple he is surprised no one else ever thought of it—but he is the only one who is surprised.

He points out that because of the rotation of the earth the trade winds in the Northern Hemisphere blow from northeast to southwest, but in the southern hemisphere the trade winds blow from southeast to northwest.

He says the Australians learned to sail in the Southern hemisphere and when they come up here the winds were almost the opposite of those they were accustomed to. This would be enough to throw any sailor for a loss.

Our "commodore" calculates that the Gretel should have gone backward in every race. He is still trying to figure out how it ever won one race and finished close in one other.

He suspects some sinister plot to suppress this information and keeps looking over his shoulder as though he were afraid someone might come to take him away before he makes the whole thing public.

Letter From Max

The statement by Astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr. that he would have liked to fly all night strikes a sympathetic note with us earthbound jerks.

This entire nightclub industry is founded on the human yearning, to cite one crass example. Let's have another 12 orbits, all around, please.

But to most of us it would mean only that we would like to see a few more plays after the end of an interesting ballgame, more pages of a fascinating book, extra minutes of a favorite movie, another aria in an opera, a few more dances at the prom, another "A" on our report card, a compliment from our boss, a varsity letter, a smile from the girl at the next desk, an extra dividend, a day added to our vacation, or the happiness of someone we've helped.

Most of us would like to be able to continue doing for just a little longer something we like doing, but the first thing that comes to mind when this is said is recreation.

It may seem strange that what Cmdr. Schirra was referring to was his work. Any of you fellow earthworms wish you could stay on the job all night, especially after a long and harrowing day with your nose to the grindstone?

Almost everyone would like to do his job better—"to fly all night" in that sense—despite a popular notion to the contrary. The reasons people don't do better are said to be society, circumstances or some all-encompassing bugaboos. But as an unpleasant example of how far-reaching this drive to do better reaches, take a safe-cracker.

By Martin Miller

There isn't a safecracker in the country who isn't trying to figure out how to use less "soup," muffle the sound better, drill a better hole, get more loot, make a quicker getaway.

Besides his reluctance to stop short of perfection at the appointed time, another appealing attitude of Cmdr. Schirra which endeared him to us men and women in the street was the urge that led him to throw a switch cutting off the electrical system that gave ground control the power to bring him out of orbit in an emergency. This meant he could stay in space until he threw the switch back.

This brings to mind the historic "Wrong Way" Corrigan who took off in a plane at Brooklyn in 1938 ostensibly for a flight to his hometown of Los Angeles or someplace else in this country and wound up by flying the Atlantic to Dublin with no permit or passport.

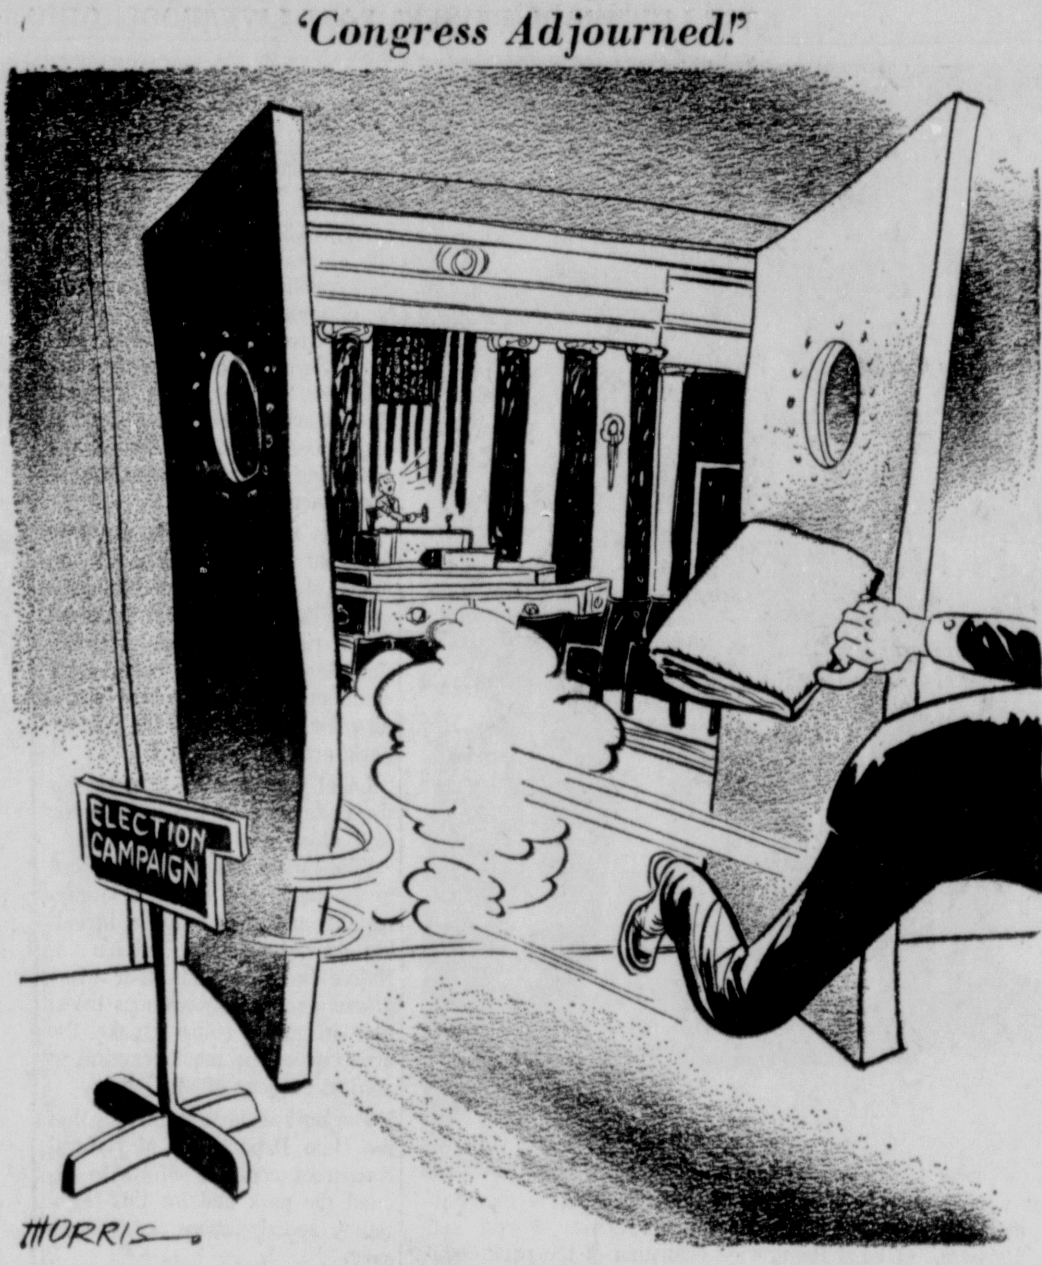

The adventurous Wally Schirra away out there in Nowhere Land was abruptly brought back to earth, figuratively, by the mild words of a flight director, "I think you have proved our point, old buddy."

It is conceivable that some future space-man might not throw the switch on as Cmdr. Schirra did. . . .

Whadayea mean, come back to all that smog, traffic, noise and rat race; it's too nice up here, Pal.

He would be our first Douglas G. Corrigan in space.

Faithfully yours,

U.S. Rail Strike Would Be Costly

By Victor Riesel

When I get that certain feeling to turn refugee and escape from news tickers, telephones and ulcerous pressures, I ride the railroads. But I'd better not reserve that urge until next January. The new year may well bring in the first national rail strike in a long time—for what may seem a long time.

That's what the experts in Chicago say. They reckon the showdown will come then between five unions of men who actually operate the trains and 195 railway companies.

Such a showdown would paralyze 201,160 miles of track across the land. Depots would be embargoed. Truck lines would be stalled when they could neither haul from nor unload at freight yards. Much harbor traffic would be stalled. Sounds melodramatic. But that's what the key rail men and many union people are thinking.

THIS FINAL duel will be fought by leaders of the brotherhoods of men who operate the trains—locomotive engineers, firemen, brakemen, switchmen, conductors—and the new National Railway Labor Conference.

This is a common front organization, created by the rail companies, which will open its headquarters here on Jan. 1. It will bargain with the national railway unions employing 200,000 on-train workers and some 550,000 off-train employees—telegraphers, yard men and other maintenance workers.

Issues in this fight are more complex than a Khrushchev co-existence speech. But they do simmer down to the rail lines saying they must modernize and they can't keep on some 50,000 men, such as telegraphers, or firemen, or help at small, unneeded stations.

THE UNIONS are trying to save their peoples' jobs in what they call a "slower" operation. There's heartache on both sides, overtime pay, holiday pay, away-from-home pay, night-shift differentials and other benefits which other workers get but the railroads don't provide. Hundreds of millions of dollars are involved.

The strike seems incredible to the layman.

But the experts say it's been a long time coming—and after several efforts at mediation in the next two months, there will be nothing to stop such a showdown.

The last time the national rails went dead because of a strike was in '46. In stood alongside a new president then, Harry Truman. His answer was an unsuccessful effort to draft the railroad workers into the army. President Kennedy won't do that.

HOW COSTLY would such a strike be—even for a few days. The most professional estimate I got was from those who knew the cost of the month-long Chicago and North Western Telegraphers' strike on the 10,700-mile line in September.

They say "roughly it cost the line, the workers, the shippers, the farmers the merchants and the hundreds of cities some $45 million." That's about $1.5 million a day for one railroad, albeit the third largest in the land. What would it be for 195 lines?

Clues to this came from the breakdown of the C and NW strike. The line lost more than $19 million in business. But that was for the month of September.

It has not recovered all its old business and may never do so.

The line has even lost 6 per cent of its daily commuters in and out of Chicago. Certainly they get to work, but they don't ride the railroad any more.

Thousands of shippers turned to running their wheat and corn and lumber and iron ore and coal by other modes of transport. There are inland waterways, truck routes, and other lines. Some of them may never come back to the old carrier.

AND THEN where is the loss of wages to the strikers—and the other 14,500 persons regularly employed by the line. Actually they lost more than $8 million in wages that month.

But there's a strange gimmick on the railroads. It's something called the Railroad Retirement Board. It collects a special fund compensation even if they're strikers. In the case of the C and NW this came to $51 a week for the duration. So the lines pay to support the strikers against the companies.

As for other losses of the C and NW and the shippers in nine states, the experts say these totalled half a million dollars a day. The exact figures won't be available for years. But what we do have clues you in on what a national rail strike could cost.

So why not arbitrate now?

A Familiar Look

By David Lawrence

Mid-Term Election Shows Lack Of Enthusiasm

The current political campaign, with its contests for seats in Congress and state offices, has a familiar look. The word "apathy" is being used by many observers to describe the presumed indifference of the voters. President Kennedy himself is getting crowds of fluctuating size. What David Lawrence is the real mood of the electorate?

Past experience shows that, when the people are mad about something, they don't go to the political meetings of the party or of the candidate that has been making them mad.

Also, when there's discontent within a party, the citizens who have voted for its candidates in previous elections just don't show up at all — either at political meetings or at the polls. Elections are then won only by those members of the opposite party who do mobilize their strength or get at least enough support to swing an election. Stay-at-home voters, in a sense, count, too.

Money talks, of course, and, however it may be camouflaged, organization means money. The funds to hire precinct workers who drag on indifferent voters to the polls are just as useful in midterm as in presidential elections.

Certain spectacular contests, to be sure, will arouse voter interest — as, for instance, the senatorial race in Massachusetts and the gubernatorial contest in California.

NO MATTER who wins in the Golden State — former Vice President Richard Nixon or Gov. Pat Brown — the outcome hardly will be significant of any national trend. Mr. Nixon is on his own. He said flatly on NBC's "Meet the Press" recently that he will not seek the presidential nomination in 1964 and emphatically declared he will stop any draft movement that might emerge.

He has seemed to close the door, but the truth is he realizes the door had already been closed against him for 1964.

Mr. Nixon knows he would not be nominated for the presidency two years hence if he should lose the governorship race this year. He would be considered to have inadequate political strength to carry his own state as a presidential candidate. So Mr. Nixon must pledge unequivocally that, if elected, he will serve a four-year term as governor and not run for president in 1964. He now has done so.

As for a draft, this is not in the cards anyway. The Republican party is split into factions and is looking for new faces for the two places at the top of the ticket.

Mr. Nixon also has said that, if elected governor, he will support for the 1964 presidential nomination the Republican who wins the presidential primary in California. That lets him out of any involvement among the would-be candidates for 1964. Also, it still leaves him free to run in 1968, though he wisely says for the record now that he will not be a candidate in 1968 because that's the year in which he expects to support the Republican presidential nominee—who, he predicts, will be elected in 1964 and naturally would be re-nominated to succeed himself in 1968.

BUT MR. NIXON didn't say what he would do if Mr. Kennedy is reelected in 1964 and Robert Kennedy becomes the Democratic presidential nominee in 1968.

That would leave Mr. Nixon an opportunity to run and still be consistent with his statement last Sunday. For, while Mr. Nixon is not as young as Bobby Kennedy, the former vice president would nevertheless be only 55 in 1968.

The campaign for congressional seats is in its early stages and has about a month more to go, but already members of the Senate and House are complaining that they haven't had the customary length of time for campaigning because of the prolonged session of Congress.

This may turn out in some instances to be beneficial for there is evidence that the public itself loses interest in long campaigns and repetitious statements.

President Kennedy is trying out some tactics in his weekend campaign speeches that he believes are politically practicable — an emphasis on how terribly bad the opposite party is.

He keeps saying so in generalities without a bill of particulars or any substantial defense of the shortcomings of his own party.

But people in local contests seem to be interested in what is being done or is likely to be done for them by the congressional candidates themselves. They don't always see just what the relationship has been or is likely to be between a president and the congressional candidates.

IN PAST YEARS, presidential influence in midterm elections has not been particularly successful in affecting the result for either party.

It all comes back to the mood of the electorate. Where there is unemployment and other forms of discontent — such as irritation over Cuba and over the frequent calling up of reserves—the tendency will be for a protest vote to be recorded against the party in power.

In this case, it could mean that large numbers of Democrats will stay at home while the normal Republican vote will, in many instances, prove to be enough to elect their candidates.

Moderation In Dixie

By Earl Mazo

For all its ugliness, the Mississippi crisis inadvertently served to show that the racist demagogues are vanishing from the ranks of Southern governors. A couple still hanging on are an embarrassment, shunned like addled country mules making mischief outside a respectable city stable.

This significant advance in American politics was graphically revealed because the 28th annual Southern Governors' Conference, meeting in Florida, happened to coincide with the turmoil in Oxford, Miss.

A long-time observer of performing politicians, North and South, wondered whether regional assemblage of the nation's other governors, given comparative political temptations, would be as restrained and responsible.

There it was as Dixie's governors congregated—a colleague, Mississippi's Ross Barnett, defying federal might in the name of states' right and white supremacy—a bloody riot between Southerners and federal marshals mobilized by a Yankee attorney general to "comeingle" a Negro man with whites—federal military occupation of a sacred Southern campus to force a semblance of desegregation.

MOREOVER, a horde of reporters, radio interviewers and television cameras were eagerly poised at conference headquarters to relay whatever was said or done to the electorate everywhere.

What rabble-rousing Dixie politician, fresh from the frustrating obscurity of a little known state capital, could ask for anything more?

But remarkably, the Southern governors chose to concentrate on other, less vote enticing matters.

True, every chief kept an eye and an ear cocked in the general direction of embattled Mississippi. Yet, on the whole they ignored the absent Brother Barnett, preferring instead to devote themselves to such plebeian matters as foreign trade, industrial development, space exploration, freight rates and reapportionment of legislatures.

Gov. Buford Ellington of Tennessee, conference chairman and a native of Mississippi, set the tone well before the conclave began. He called a pre-session press conference to proclaim and emphasize the moderation line before any more flamboyant colleagues might yield to temptation and dominate the conference news with inflammatory pronouncement.

Gov. Farris Bryant, of Florida, as host to the conference, delivered at the opening session what was, in effect a stirring plea for common sense planning for a great and abundant future for all the South and the nation—and an end to the waste of futile attacks on ancient windmills.

ONLY ONE of the 16 participating governors strayed.

John Patterson, the young lame duck chief executive of Alabama, performed the old "country mule" act. He castigated Washington, pledged "1,000 per cent support for Ross Barnett and the people of Mississippi," and dared President Kennedy to "invade Alabama."

Plan Offered On Juveniles

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's campaign headquarters released today a 16-point program which the governor calls the least costly answer to the juvenile delinquency problem.

DiSalle, seeking reelection, was campaigning today in Cuyahoga County.

In his release, the Democrat said his program, "if adopted in its total concept with substantial beginnings made in the next four years, in the long run will provide the least costly answer to a problem which to date has defied solution."

He said the program for the prevention, treatment and control of juvenile delinquency was taken from recommendations of the Council of State Governments, the President's Committee on Juvenile Delinquency and Youth Crimes and the National Council on Crime and Delinquency.

The governor said the state should adopt a master plan of action on recommendations by the various agencies. To help carry out these suggestions, DiSalle said the state should, among other things, —Provide technical assistance through consultation services to help counties and municipalities.

—Provide standard-setting devices for local communities and help implement them; this includes minimum standards of training and experience for personnel, for recruiting and retaining personnel, for agency procedures and for local institutional facilities where juveniles are housed.

—Provide aid in the form of subsidies and personnel to help develop and staff local facilities.

—Provide stipends for training staffs of local agencies and organizations.

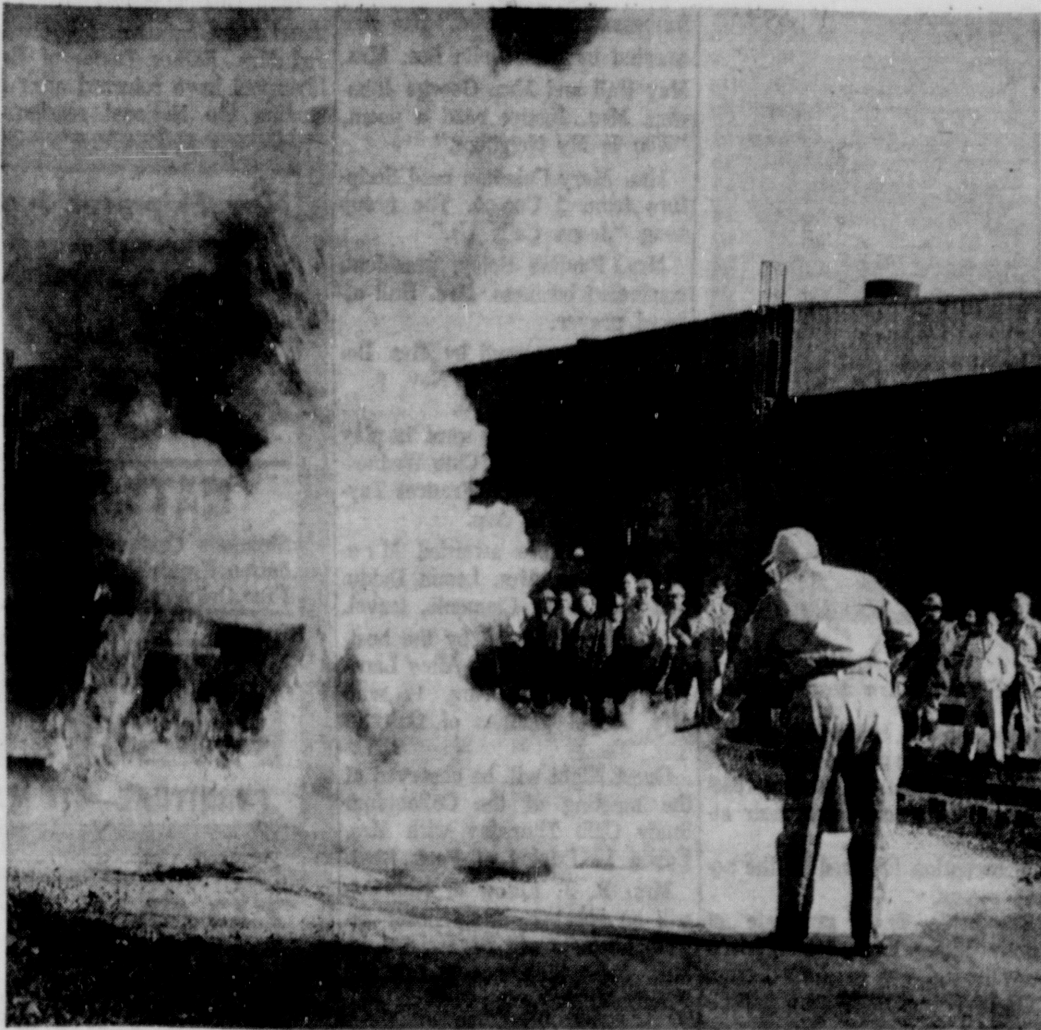

At the annual fire school of the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. Saturday, George Yother of Connellsville, regional distributor for Safety First Products Corp., showed visiting firemen the use of a new fire extinguisher using Purple K (potassium bi-carbonate) on a flammable liquid test fire.

About 60 firemen from nine area fire departments attended the annual Fire Prevention Week demonstration at Crucible's fire brigade training grounds, sponsored by the Midland Works' plant protection department.

Departments participating were Hookstown, Vanport, Industry, Liverpool Township,

Lt. J. W. Graham, plant fire marshal, discussed the methods and conditions for the use of stored pressure water, soda acid, foamite, carbon tetrachloride, dry chemical and carbon dioxide fire extinguishers. Test fires were set and the visiting firemen were instructed in the proper method of extinguishing them.

Roger R. Cholin, vice president of training for Safety First Products Corp. of Elmsford, N.Y., introduced the firm's newly-developed Purple K and compared its effectiveness with the widely used sodium bicarbonate. Yother and Donald Huffman, Pittsburgh district representative, assisted him.

The area firemen were guests of the Midland Works at lunch in the plant management dining room. Following lunch, an illustrated lecture, "Fighting Tank Fires," was presented, using color slides prepared by the National Fire Protection Association and the Tulsa (Okla.) Fire Department.

Tom Randal Buckel, 18, of Wellsville R. D. 1 was cited for failure to halt in the assured clear distance after his car hit the rear of another driven by Gary Dean Stone, 21, of 525 W. Jefferson St., Salineville, Saturday at 11:35 p. m. on Route 39 just over a mile east of Salineville. Both were headed south when Stone started slowing on the highway, officers said.

An East Palestine man was arrested for failure to stop after an accident following a sideswiping collision on County Rd. 421 a half mile south of Route 14 Saturday at 1:10 p. m.

Bethia Southwick Chapter Observes Founders' Day

In observance of Founder's Day, Mrs. Mary Green told of the ancestry of Mrs. Caroline Scott Harrison in the Ohio Valley when Bethia Southwick Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was entertained Friday night by Mrs. Herman Feustel of Henry Ave.

Mrs. Harrison, wife of President Benjamin Harrison, was the first president general of the DAR, organized Oct. 11, 1890. Her grandfather, the Rev. George M. Scott, was the first pastor of the Mill Creek Presbyterian Church, near Hookstown, (1799-1837) and pastor of the Flats Presbyterian Church at Fairview, near Pughstown (1799-1826).

Mrs. Green emphasized the consecrated and dedicated life of Rev. Scott and traced his early life. She said his life work of nearly a half century in the ministry was marked with the spirit of consecration.

The speaker described the missionary work of the pastor in the pioneer days and told of Dr. John W. Scott, Caroline's father, also a minister and at one time president of Oxford Female College at Miami.

Mrs. Green related incidents in the early married life of President Harrison and the first lady. She said President Harrison was convinced that help comes only from the Lord and throughout the four years he lived at the White House, he had daily morning devotions. Mrs. Green gave a seating arrangement of the Mill Creek Church in 1820.

The address of the First President General to the first DAR Continental Congress in Washington on Feb. 22, 1892, was read by Mrs. Janet Moore.

The average American establishes a very poor record as a book reader — compared with other nations of the world. In England, for example, the proportion of adults who are book readers is three times as high as the U. S. The average U. S. library registers only about 25 per cent of the adult population in its area and of these, only about 10 per cent are regular customers.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My husband makes about $75,000 a year as a professional wrestler. He has a smart manager and we've done well financially.

We live in a high-class suburb where all the neighbors are doctors, lawyers or businessmen. They have not accepted us because of my husband's profession. His friends for the most part are other wrestlers who hang around here by the dozens. Almost every night they are out on the front lawn practicing holds. The neighbor kids gather and before long it's like a show.

I've begged him to use the gym which is specially equipped but he says it's more fun outside.

Last night the people next door were having a party and my husband and his pals were acting up. The man came over and said something about cheapening the neighborhood. Now he is in the hospital with a sacroiliac problem. What is your advice?—W.W.

Dear W.: Thousands of people spend good money to see the performances your neighbors can get for free. It's unfortunate they don't appreciate it.

After your husband has paid the doctor bill (as well as the lawyer who probably will have to defend him in the assault and battery suit) perhaps he will listen to your suggestions that the exhibitions be confined to the inside gym.

Sob Story

Dear Ann: Our 16-year-old Peggy has been going steady with a boy 17, for almost a year. I want her to drop him because his family problems are making her a nervous wreck.

The boy's father travels most of the time and his mother is an alcoholic. Recently he phoned Peggy to tell her his mother had passed out and looked like she may be dead. He didn't know whether to call the doctor or the police.

Last night he came over at 9 o'clock. There was no supper at home and his mother was "out somewhere." Peggy fixed him something to eat and stayed up till midnight listening to his sad stories. When he left she was in tears.

I say this is not healthy for a 16-year-old girl. She has no interest in dating anyone else. When I suggest it she gets angry. What can I do?—Z.Q.X.

Dear Z.Q.X.: Be sympathetic to the boy and his problems and make no effort to break up the romance. Peggy will stop seeing him only if she thinks it is her idea. Too often young girls hang on to a boy they'd like to unload because they hate to give their parents the satisfaction of being right.

Still Mother's Boy

Dear Ann: I'm a young man 22 who operates a small store for the owners. They pay me a good salary and I am far from broke.

My mother and sister live about 35 miles from here. They drive in every few weeks for shopping and visiting. Whenever I invite them to stay and have dinner with me it causes an argument.

My mother insists on paying for their dinners although I've told her dozens of times that the price of two dinners isn't going to land me in the poorhouse. She always says, "Never mind. Son, spend your money on other things, not us."

After they leave I am embarrassed and unhappy. Why is my mother like this? How can I make her see my side?—C.N.

Dear C.N.: Your mother still thinks of you as her little boy and she always will.

On their next trip tell her in advance that you refuse to have dinner with them unless you are the host. Self respect is more important than a few dollars.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Scout Fund Drive Set At Wellsville

The Wellsville Boy Scout fund drive will get underway today and last through Sunday, Oct. 21, with a goal of $1,800, Jerry Russell, city chairman said.

The solicitation will not include all homes, only 400 to 500 of those have contributed in the past. Any one not contacted in the past who wants to make a donation or help solicit may contact Russell at L.E. 2-2916 or James Laughlin, treasurer, at L.E. 2-1517.

Russell said Wellsville has over 300 boys in scouting from over 12 troops, including Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and Explorers.

He said Wellsville has the largest number of scouts for any district its size in the county.

This year's goal is $200 more than last year's.

Anesthesia was first employed in surgery by Dr. Crawford Long of Georgia in 1841.

Chester Soldier Ends 2 Years' German Duty

Army Sgt. and Mrs. Tommy Parker, the former Mariene Clark of Chester, are visiting her mother, Mrs. Florence Powell, 550 Carolina Ave., Chester, before continuing to Ft. Sill, Okla., where he has been assigned.

Sgt. Parker, who has just returned from Germany, where he served two years, was graduated in June from noncommissioned officers' school at Bad Tölz. He has been cited twice as Soldier of the Month and once as Driver of the Month.

Naturalists Ralph and Florence Welles believe that the celebrated butting matches of bighorn rams are probably rituals, not serious fights for possession of mates. The bouts apparently fulfill some deep urge in the mating season but do not directly concern the ewes.

Marking National 'Week'

Markets Feature Apples In Quantity At Low Prices

Apples are in abundant supply at low prices in district markets as part of the observance of National Apple Week, according to Ed Watkins, market information specialist with the Agriculture Extension Service at Canfield. Most fruits and vegetables are displayed in abundance at reasonable prices, but apples take the spotlight, Watkins commented.

The assortment of apple varieties available in retail markets is as large and prices as reasonable as at any time during the year. McIntosh, Cortland and Jonathan are popular general purpose apples. Red Delicious is well suited for eating fresh and for fresh salad use.

In retail stores the smaller sized apples are commonly packed in plastic bags, medium sizes into trays of four, six or eight apples and the large size displayed in bulk. Roadside markets report popular size containers are four and eight quart baskets.

Three other fruits are features of this week's markets. Grapes, red, white and black, are seasonal fruits in especially good supply. Tokays, the red ones, still are the price features and are favorites of many for taste.

Thompson Seedless (red) and Ribiers (black) are only slightly higher in price. Bartlett pears and bananas round out the fresh fruits available in quantity during this period.

As the quantity of fieldgrown tomatoes decrease, greenhouse grown supplies take their place.

More fall grown parsnips, turnips, rutabagas and winter squash are in the markets. Cauliflower, cabbage, escarole and endive are in good supply at reasonable prices.

Values in canned fruits and vegetables reflect rather large packs of peas, corn and tomato products. Prices on canned pears, cherries and fruit cocktail are lower than a year ago. Canned apple sauce is also a feature of this week in some area markets.

Rather plentiful supplies of frozen peas, corn and mixed vegetables are reflected in lower prices. There are less frozen green beans and prices on this product are higher than last seasons pack. Frozen food specials also point to quite an abundance of frozen fish fillets, especially haddock.

Centennial Fund Gets $434 From Hancock County

Hancock County residents contributed a total of $434 to the West Virginia Centennial Fund during a "telethon" broadcast Saturday night on WTRF-TV in Wheeling.

The broadcast originated in Charleston and was carried through most of the state from 9 to midnight, but in Northern Panhandle communities only from 11 to midnight.

Martin F. Fahey of Weirton, county centennial chairman, said contributions will be turned over to the state centennial committee to help supplement funds already appropriated by the State Legislature for the 1963 celebration.

Volunteers and deputies on the staff of Sheriff Joseph H. Many-penny collected pledges telephoned by contributors in Weirton, Chester, Newell, Pughtown and New Cumberland.

Pupils attending county schools contributed $566.82 to the centennial fund in a "stockholders day" event Thursday. Pupils who donated received centennial pins. The supply of the pins was exhausted, Fahey said.

As part of the centennial observance in Hancock, a history of the county is being prepared and the first draft has been written, Fahey said.

Canadian Bull Takes Title In Jersey Show

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Fairmount Premier Radar and Valiant Plume Lady are the rulers of the 1962 Jersey Jug Futurity.

Fairmount, a 3-year-old bull owned and shown by George H. Innes of Woodstock, Ont., topped seven other bulls Sunday for the blue ribbon in the event—part of the four-day All American Jersey Show here.

Valiant Plume Lady, owned by Jimmy Ross of Oak Hill Farm near Cambridge, joined three other entrants by the farm, winning the Cow division.

The Futurity attracted the largest field and paid the highest premium—$5,250—since the event was inaugurated in 1954.

Guest Speaks To BPW Club

Approximately 100 attended a tea of the East Liverpool Business & Professional Women's Club Sunday afternoon in the Potters Savings & Loan Co. annex to hear Mrs. Agnes Merritt of Columbus, past president of the Ohio Federation of BPW Clubs, speak on her recent tour of East and West Berlin, Russia, Poland, Finland and the Scandinavian countries.

Mrs. Merritt made the tour this summer after attending the Congress of the International Federation of BPW Women at Oslo, Norway, as a National BPW representative.

The guest speaker discussed highlights of the education, religion, housing, elections, food and entertainment in Russia, including Leningrad and Moscow.

Leningrad, she said, is a "neglected city" with much treasure-art galleries and museums—while Moscow has a traffic problem, since no other cities have autos.

In referring to Russian education, the guest speaker said it is compulsory to seventh grade. If one has a politically sound background, a test for admission to an institute or university can be taken, she said. Only 20 per cent are to be educated and others must work, Mrs. Merritt said.

"Let us as individuals be proud to stand up and be Americans," she said in closing.

The civic participation committee, with Mrs. Nessie Dunlop as chairman, arranged the event.

Osteopaths To Honor Veteran Practitioner

Dr. John D. Baum of Parma, native of East Liverpool, will be honored in recognition of 50 years of practice at a banquet Tuesday at the Kirksville (Mo.) College of Osteopathy and Surgery.

Dr. Baum was graduated from Kirksville College, the first college of osteopathy, in 1912. The college and the Alumni Association are sponsoring the banquet, at which Dr. and Mrs. Baum will be guests.

Earlier this year, Dr. Baum was honored with life memberships in the Ohio Osteopathic Association of Physicians and Surgeons and the Cleveland Academy of Osteopathic Medicine.

A 1908 graduate of East Liverpool High School, he practiced osteopathy here after receiving his diploma from Kirksville. Dr. Baum moved to Cleveland 30 years ago and has been engaged in practice in Parma 25 years. He was born in East Liverpool on W. 7th St.

The council also urged the state to reconsider the residence requirement for blind relief. The council's three-day convention ended Sunday.

Some Parents Force Food On Children

As you walk down the street, one out of every four children you meet is past pleasingly plump. Weight twenty per cent above normal is termed obesity. And obesity is known to be a serious health hazard.

Will these children outgrow their "baby fat"? Repeated studies have shown that five times as many overweight children turn into obese adults as did normal weight or underweight children.

Is fatness inherited? It is clearly obvious that overweight runs in some families. Surveys show that when both parents are stout, 80 per cent of the children can be expected to be stout. When only one parent is overly fat, less than half the children can be expected to be overweight. With normal weight parents, however, fewer than 10 percent of the children will be fat.

THIS DIETITIAN was startled to read in a magazine article concerning overweight children that the above figures showed heredity to be the cause. But fat comes only from excess food.

Today it is known that environmental factors are largely responsible for an individual's weight. Indeed, experiments have shown that fat children who have overweight parents respond to reducing in the same way as do fat children who have normal weight parents. It's the food!

All factors must be taken into consideration. Is it much too much food, or much too little activity? Of course the food habits of the family and sweets or no sweets between meals are factors. But activity is the biggest variable in calorie requirements. Normally, children are so active they burn up an incredible number of calories. And what is the inactive chubby child doing? Sitting, watching TV and eating or reading and eating.

The attitude of the parents is all important. Many parents still cling to the notion that the big child is bursting with health. Overlooked too, is the emotional factor. When certain emotional needs are satisfied with food, eating is linked with security. This pattern becomes fixed.

Thoughtful parents should recognize that childhood chubbiness may be the first stage to obesity. The overweight who have the hardest time reducing are those who have been fat since childhood.

OVERWEIGHT IS really a handicap to a child! Watching children frolicking enroute home from school, I noted the traffic officer had to allow extra time for the chubby-tubbies trudging at the tag end.

Meredith Starts Third Week On Ole Miss Campus

OXFORD, Miss (AP) — James H. Meredith starts his third week of classes today at the University of Mississippi, where he is the first Negro ever knowingly enrolled in the school's 114 years.

The 29-year-old Meredith, a slightly-built Air Force veteran, returned to the campus Sunday night after a weekend away. He went immediately to his two-room apartment in Baxter Hall, accompanied by 10 federal marshals and two Justice Department attorneys.

Some 3,000 soldiers remain on the Oxford campus and in the vicinity. They are the last of 23,600 troops sent here to quell bloody rioting that erupted the night of Sept. 30 when Meredith arrived at Ole Miss. Two people died in the riots.

Meanwhile, in New Orleans the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals is expected to decide sometime this week whether to fine or imprison Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett for his actions in the Ole Miss desegregation case. The court said it wanted to decide the state of Mississippi's challenge to jurisdiction in the contempt proceedings and asked that briefs be submitted by today.

The tribunal already has found Barnett and Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson Jr. guilty of civil contempt for their role in blocking Meredith's entrance to Ole Miss three times. The court delayed imposing sentence to give the two a chance to purge themselves.

Barnett faces possible imprisonment plus a $10,000 a day fine. Johnson could draw a $5,000 daily fine.

Ohio Air Guard Gets Revised Organization

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A virtually self-sufficient support group is being organized around each of Ohio's five Air National Guard flying squadrons to better prepare them for any future national emergencies.

Officials said the revamping is taking place around Air Guard flying units throughout the nation and will be well on its way to completion in Ohio this week.

It is based in large degree on lessons learned during the 1961-62 Berlin build-up, in which the Ohio Air Guard was called.

It is believed that, under this group arrangement, each of Ohio's five flying squadrons could be activated in an emergency and sent to separate destinations, Aid Guard officials said.

1880 War Figure Dies

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Charles Fuhry, 101, of Jeffersonville, Ind., one of 25 survivors of the Indian wars of the 1880s, died Friday in a Veteran's Administration hospital. Fuhry served with the famed U.S. 6th Cavalry much of the time in pursuit of the elusive Apache chief, Geronimo.

Old-Fashioned Heating Plants Seen As Handicap

An old heating system usually is the major culprit in preventing a housewife from decorating her home to suit her tastes. Large, protruding old-fashioned radiators and outmoded heating registers often interfere with furniture arrangement. They frequently pose a problem, too, when the housewife wants to hang drapery or have wall to wall carpeting installed. Furniture, drapery and carpeting are three of the most important items in a home's decor, and they contribute to successful home decorating only when they can be properly used. If you live in an older house and plan to redecorate, you needn't be handcuffed to an old-fashioned heating system. In the past few years modern heating equipment has been introduced which is not only especially suited to installation in older houses, but which will give the housewife full freedom in home decorating.

New Roofing Safe, Durable

When choosing roofing material, home owners should insist on both safety and good appearance. Asphalt shingles meet both these requirements. Families can make sure their homes are protected by fire-resistant roofing by choosing asphalt shingles that have earned the Underwriters' Laboratories' Class C label.

This label is given to asphalt shingles that weigh at least 235 pounds per 100 square feet of roof area and have passed severe flame - exposure and burning-brand tests.

The color of asphalt shingles is deprived from a tough coating of permanently colored mineral granules embedded in the asphalt surface. In addition to providing glare - free color, this coating of rock particles helps make the shingles fire resistant.

Asphalt shingles with the UL Class C label are now available in an array of solid and blended colors, including white and pastels, as well as the traditional dark greens, blues, reds, browns, and blacks.

White and the pastels, including silver gray, are particularly appropriate with contemporary architecture and color styling.

DESIGNED for 100-foot lot and the larger family, this ranch has four bedrooms or three bedrooms and den. There is an informal family room as well as formal living room and dining room. Extra space is provided back of the garage for hobbies, garden tools and laundry. A full basement includes large playroom. Living area of the house, excluding space behind the garage, is 1,737 square feet. Architect for Plan HA260C is Lester Cohen, Room 75, 117 W. 48th St., New York 36, N.Y.

Poll Shows Preference For Basement In Homes

Should we have a basement in our new home? The answer from Mrs. U.S.A. is overwhelmingly in favor of homes with basements.

In a recent national conference of housewives on housing, three fourths of the delegates from all parts of the nation voted for basements. Only those in warmer climates, where basements are not customary, did not follow the trend.

"We need storage space," the basement supporters said. "We need a place for our children to play in the winter. You get more space for less money."

"A basement," these ladies report, "is where you store baby things when not in use and all the other things you can't bear to throw away."

A bonus for the basement home, reports many a housewife, is a better floor to walk on. Instead of the hard-as-rock concrete slab so common in basementless homes, you have a wood joist floor which is so easy on the feet.

There is a certain resilience and give to a wood floor, the ladies report, which takes up much of the shock of walking and at the end of the day a housewife is not nearly so tired as the one who has to walk on concrete.

Basements keep a home warmer, builders report, and there is less chance for moisture to accumulate.

The ladies listed a good many points in favor of basements, such as providing a place for the laundry where it is cool in summer, a workroom for the man of the house, a place for storage of children's skis and other bulky sports gear, extra room for a bedroom or a playroom, a shelter against tornadoes.

From a construction standpoint, basements with wood joist framing provide ideal space for future enlarging, because you can easily apply ceilings to the exposed joists.

A joist framed floor is an interesting installation when viewed from below, and you get an excellent demonstration of why the wood floor will give ever so slightly when you walk on it and thus ease the strain on your legs.

The joists are braced so slightly when you walk on it and thus ease the strain on your legs. The joints are braced so that the weight on one spot is taken up by several joists on either side, thus providing strength without immobility.

Two of the better known species of lumber used throughout the nation for framing lumber - Douglas fir and west coast hemlock - come from Oregon, Washington and California. These two species are available at every town in the nation and account for more than half of all framing

Tests Prove Heating Cut By Insulation

Whether you live in the North, the South, or in between, tests show that adequate insulation cuts heating and cooling bills and reduces the construction costs of a home.

An actual dollar - and - cent study made in the three representative climatic areas of the country showed that recommended amounts of mineral wool insulation saved up to $99 each year in fuel and power for heating and air conditioning and lowered construction costs by as much as $230.

The study, made by the National Mineral Wool Insulation Association, compared two identical, three-bedroom ranch houses with 2,034 square feet of living space. The warm climatic area was represented by Dallas, moderate by Indianapolis, and cold by Minneapolis.

One house in each area had the minimum amount of insulation generally used by builders - 1 1/2 inches in ceilings and none in walls. The other, properly insulated according to "R" numbers, had mineral wool with an installed resistance of R-19 in ceilings, R-11 in exterior walls, and two inches of perimeter insulation against the sides of a heated crawl space.

The "R" number represents the total resistance to heat transfer of insulation in place in the house. The higher the number the greater the insulating value.

Annual fuel and power savings for the adequately insulated houses were: Dallas, $99; Indianapolis, $81; and Minneapolis, $99.

Since there was less heat transfer in the well-insulated houses, the year-round comfort level of 75 degrees was maintained by a smaller furnace and cooling unit. This cut total construction costs - including cost of the additional insulation - by $80 in Dallas, $130 in Indianapolis, and $230 in Minneapolis.

Privacy Provided By High Fencing For Corner Tract

Do you have a corner lot with your house exposed to the prying eyes of every passerby? Then here is the ideal solution. Convert your property into a courtyard, with high, solid board fences going right to the property line. This is a style made famous by the Spaniards and brought to the New World in the fifteenth century.

With attractive fences, you can make a world of your own, private from the casual stroller. You will find that every foot of your land is available for gardens when you enclose your lot with estate-type fences.

These fences may be solid boards, to give maximum privacy, but you can also use a louvered fence with the slanted boards set so that no one can see in. Board-on-board fences also give maximum privacy without the feeling of being isolated.

Fence posts should be 4x4 inch cedar, with the portion intended for sinking in the ground treated. Your cross rails or top and bottom rails can be Douglas fir and generally either 2x4s or 2x6s are sufficient. Fir boards are adequate for any design one may select.

These fences can be stained or painted, but many housewives are finding the most charming fence is one where the wood has been untreated and left to weather to a lovely, soft, natural grey color.

All 4 In Bridge Game Dealt Perfect Hands

HIGHLAND, Ill. (AP) - Bridge playing card bluffs estimate the odds against a single player receiving a perfect suit in a deal is 600 million to one.

The extremely rare combination was dealt to four members of the Highland Bridge Club simultaneously.

A spokesman said each of four women received a full suit from a new, thoroughly shuffled deck.

Mrs. Richard Hammel of Trenton, Ill., holding the spade suit, won a seven-spade bid over Mrs. Floyd Tschennen who held hearts. Mrs. Roland Tschudy held diamonds and Mrs. Roscoe Menz held clubs.

An engineering graduate of Washington University, using a calculating machine, estimated if every person in the world was dealt 120 hands daily, it would take 102 trillion years for the combination to appear again.

Mice For Science

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - The 500,000th mouse has acquired cancer through a needle in the giant testing program of anticancer chemicals being conducted at Battelle Memorial Institution. The far in the tests, 15,260 chemicals have been screened, more than five million injections have been given and the half million mice, costing $250,000 have been used.

'Hot Brown' Top Color For 1963

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If you haven't discovered "hot brown," you will. It should be one of the top colors for 1963, predict topflight interior designers.

The brown is not the conventional chocolate shade, out rather a spicy brown, a little deeper shade from cinnamon. It is being shown by interior designers at the Decoration and Design show Oct. 12-23.

"Brown, yellow and gold combinations are going to be big," predicts William Pahlmann, "and it'll be teamed with orange in different names and shades. It's a great color combination, particularly for temperate zones."

He thinks we'll see a lot of green this fall, too.

Warm yellows used in the show range from deepest amber to bright banana. A rich India curry is one of the most mouth-watering yellows seen in many a day. Those who've never warmed to yellow may do so now that it has taken on exotic airs.

From deepest tortoise shell brown to delicately hued mushroom, brown has a warmth that is catching.

There is a good deal of blue in the show, also, often teamed with green, but in most instances colors are determined by where it is to be used.

Quiet rooms such as libraries lap it up: Pat Harvey uses blues and greens combined with bamboo in a library. David Barrett combines cerulean with white in a restful billiard room. Ellen Lenman McCluskey did one living room entirely in blues for a tranquil look. Iridescent aqua blue with avocado green is in a terrace room by Jeannette McKean. The majority of green used in the show is on the yellow side, rather than deeper greens used last year.

Both brown and blue teamed with gold and copper are used by Melanie Kuhane. She used cobalt blue ceramic tile on a living room floor, combining the same tile with brown felt for the walls. The effect is achieved by using 27-inch panels of the felt from floor to ceiling spaced with strips of ceramic tile. The recessed strips give walls added dimension. One wall of the living room has an antiqued copper veneer laminated to fiber paper surrounding a fireplace from tile-lined wall to ceiling.

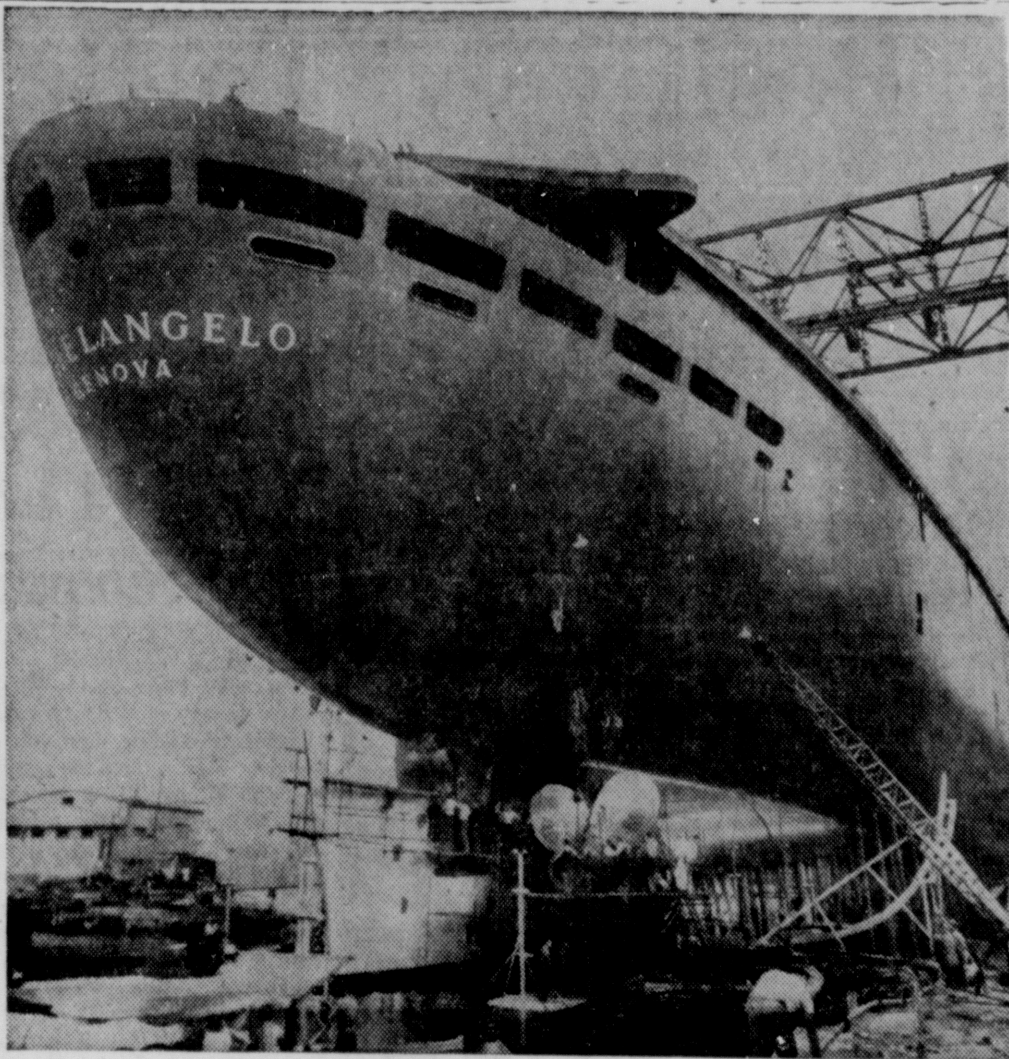

A hand-printed velvetreen designed by Jack Lenor Larsen in shades of cobalt blue, brown, gold and copper carries out the room's color scheme at the sofa.

A strong accent color, especially for rooms suggested for tropical areas is hot pink, even in carpet. One wall-to-wall carpet has its hot pink textured with various sections determining living areas. There are areas for conversation groups and for dining.

Hot pink is used in small doses too when vivid effects are required to complete a color scheme. In one bedroom it is combined with white, but there are no Hollywood-type white rooms in the show this year.

Though colors in the show blow hot and cold, deeper colors go to walls, brighter hues go to floors, and fabrics remain subtle even when a great many varying hues are used.

A display by the American Institute of Interior Designers, a series of room-size photographic blow-ups of the new White House library for which they were responsible, reveals that the President too is enjoying the new color palette. The room's color scheme is pale yellow, henna, brown and green.

A WORK OF ART — Standing in drydock, the new Italian liner Michelangelo makes an impressive sight in Genoa. The vessel will accommodate about 1,850 passengers. The ship has two radar installations, teletypes and a phone-central with 700 numbers.

Plastic Piping Making Bow To Home Builders

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

When we think of plastic piping, we are likely to think of the flexible garden-hose variety. But the plastic piping being introduced to the home-building market is of the rigid, thermoplastic type.

The manufacturers of plastic piping face two major problems. The first is get state and local code authorities to accept the plastic for general use in household plumbing. The second is to convince home buyers, architects and builders that the new product has certain advantages.

Manufacturers and trade groups are setting up test installations in key regions of the country in an effort to prove to code officials everything they claim. The pipe and fittings for all-plastic hot and cold water, drainage, waste and vent lines are already developed, in production and in limited use.

The layman will find plastic piping terminology a bit complex, to say the least. The major candidates for household use are plastics named polyvinyl chloride, acrylonitrile-butadiene-styrene, polyvinyl dichloride and polyethylene.

As so often happens, it is likely that their abbreviations — PVC, ABS, PVDC and PE — will take over. PVS and ABS will be aimed largely at drainage, waste and vent piping. PVDC is the new "hi-temp" vinyl that has made feasible the piping of hot water in plastics. PE has uses in underground water distribution lines outside of the house.

What do the manufacturers claim for these products? They say the piping is capable of withstanding indefinitely industrial corrosion attacks more severe than conditions found in the home, without incurring pinhole leaks or deteriorating at the joints.

They do not conduct electricity. And PVC and PVDC do not support combustion. The latter two types, recommended for hot and cold water lines, are said not to impart a taste to drinking water. On the matter of material costs, the manufacturers admit they will be slightly higher than for the comparable metals, but all this may not be so when production is geared to large quantities used by home builders.

The manufacturers also claim that, whatever the initial higher costs are, they will be offset by installation and maintenance savings.

Horizontal and vertical runs of rigid plastic piping are suspended from or attached to ceilings or walls in much the same manner as metal piping, using straps or hangers and leaving them a little loose so the piping can expand or contract slightly with changes in temperature.

Meanwhile, the general use of plastic piping will gain headway only insofar as code authorities can be convinced of its practicality.

Back in 1940 a group of lumbermen in Oregon and Washington launched the tree farm program which was to encourage private forest land owners to apply sound, scientific forest management to their taxpaying forest lands.

Today, the Tree Farm program has spread nationwide and nearly 60 million acres of private lands are enrolled in this great conservation plan.

Utilize Stairs For Book Shelf

A good place to build book shelves is into the stair systems of a home where the books can be handy to persons going to bed or going downstairs to a playroom.

Shelves for books can form the banister system or make up the protective railing for an open stairwell going to the level below. Or, shelves can be installed into the wall under the stair treads.

Such installations are attractive, provide bonus shelving space, and are inexpensive to build. You can build these book shelves out of finish lumber such as Douglas fir or west coast hemlock which can be purchased at most retail lumber yards.

Generally a shelving grade of lumber eight, 10 or 12 inches wide is adequate for this type of installation.

Mother Made Certain Daughter Got Room

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP) — There is a lot of talk today about the threatened future overcrowding of colleges, but Mrs. Dale Arthur McCoy of Malvern, Ark., was worried about the problem 18 years ago.

When her daughter, Donna Lynn, was born in 1944, Mrs. McCoy wrote Ouachita Baptist College in Arkadelphia, asking that a room be reserved for Donna Lynn in 1962.

Ouachita, Mrs. McCoy's alma mater, confirmed the reservation, and Donna Lynn got her room when the school opened this fall.

Sixth Game Of Series 'Positively' To Be Played Today

Green Bay Wins, 48-21, Without Services Of Hornung

Good Weather Promised; Pierce Opposes Ford After Long Delay

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The oft-delayed sixth game of the World Series between New York and San Francisco "positively" was to be played at noon today with the Yankees' Whitey Ford facing the Giants' Billy Pierce.

The weatherman promised good weather.

The veteran left-hander had been primed since last Friday been primed since last Friday but the worst October storm to lash the Bay area in 58 years forced Commissioner Ford Frick to postpone the game Sunday for the third straight day. The sky was sunny, but the playing field still was soggy.

A sellout crowd of some 44,000 was expected to attend what may be the World Series finale. The Yankees, leading in games, three to two needed one more triumph to post their 20th championship since they won their first in 1923.

Both pitchers were well rested. Pierce, who has never lost in Candlestick Park, winning all 12 decisions, had not pitched since he was beaten in the third series game, at Yankee Stadium, last Sunday.

Ford, winner of five straight series games, including a 6-2 triumph here in the opener, last appeared on the mound a week ago when the Giants evened the series at two-all with a 7-3 victory. Ford left after six innings with the score tied at 2-2 and was not charged with the loss.

Manager Ralph Houk of the Yankees went with the same lineup he employed in all but the second game, when first baseman Bill Skowron and catcher Ellie Howard were sidelined because of injuries. Manager Alvin Dark made one change, switching from Tom Haller to Ed Bailey behind the plate. Each is a left-handed batter.

Dark reiterated that Jack Sanford, his right-handed ace, would pitch the seventh game, if one was needed. Houk said he was still undecided between Ralph Terry and Bill Stafford. Terry out-pitched Sanford in the fifth game, and Stafford beat Pierce in the third. Sanford won the second from Terry.

The two teams, bored and physically stiff from four days of inactivity, journeyed by bus Sunday to Modesto, 90 miles away, and worked out for two hours at Del Webb Stadium.

Miami (Ohio That Is) Pulls Major Surprise

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
ALABAMA, the proud defending national college football champion, headed for a downfall?

For two weeks in a row the Crimson Tide, now boasting a record of 15 consecutive victories, has had to struggle to overcome its opposition. Last Saturday, Alabama staggered past Houston, 14-3. The week before, Bear Bryant's outfit scored an unimpressive 17-7 decision over Vanderbilt — a team that has managed to score just 13 points in losing all four of its games.

Worse yet, by comparison, Mississippi, Alabama's No. 1 rival for the tough Southeastern Conference title, clobbered Houston, 40-7, just nine days ago. Alabama and Mississippi don't meet during the regular season.

Mississippi, No. 5 in the country, had an open date last Saturday and this week meets Tulane, Louisiana State, No. 6, and another threat for the SEC crown, knocked Miami from the unbeaten ranks 17-3, and next plays Kentucky. It's just possible that the LSU-Ole Miss game on Nov. 3 could settle the league race.

Meanwhile, the run for the Eastern championship has been thrown into a state of merry confusion with Army's 9-6 victory over Penn State, ranked No. 3 in the nation.

But perhaps the most surprising team in the country is Miami of Ohio, which does most of its business in the Mid-American Conference. The Redskins defeated ninth-ranked Purdue, one of the toughies from the Big Ten, 10-7, last Saturday.

Second-ranked Texas, the favorite for the Southwest Conference championship, also could be in for trouble. The Longhorns did nothing to up their prestige in a narrow 9-6 victory over Oklahoma that ran their record to 4-0.

Ohio State, which topped all the way from first to tenth in the poll last week after being beaten by UCLA, took its wrath out on Illinois with a 51-15 pasting. The Buckeyes play Northwestern, which could be a problem this week. Northwestern's high scoring Wildcats won their third straight, topping Minnesota 34-22.

On the West Coast, Southern California, favorite for the Big Six title, took the day off. The Trojans are No. 4. Seventh-ranked Washington barely edged Oregon State, 14-13.

West Virginia became another giant-killer by downing Pitt, 15-8. Georgia Tech, driving to regain a national ranking, shut out Tennessee, 17-0; Duke throttled California, 21-7; and Texas Christian remained in the Southwest Conference race with a 35-13 triumph over Texas Tech.

Delegates From 5 Cities To Bid For '68 Olympics

CHICAGO (AP) — Delegates from five cities will present cases today before the U.S. Olympic Committee's board of directors in a bid for the 1968 Olympic summer games.

Representatives from Los Angeles, San Francisco, Detroit, Philadelphia and Portland will have separate sessions of not more than 45 minutes before the board in behalf of their cities.

Lake Placid, N.Y., and Salt Lake City will submit bids for the 1968 Winter Games.

The Olympic site committee, after listening to the presentations, will decide which two cities should be considered for the summer and winter games.

Headed by Chairman Robert J. Kane of Cornell, the 40-member board of directors will officially announce its choices Tuesday morning.

After that, the bids of the selected cities will be submitted by the U.S. Olympic Committee at the International Olympic Committee meeting in Nairobi, Kenya, in October, 1963.

A final decision will then be made with other bids expected from Vienna, Mexico City, Lausanne and Buenos Aires.

The last time the summer games were held in the U.S. was in 1932 when Los Angeles was the host.

Five Yankees hit 20 or more home runs this season. Roger Maris has 33, Mickey Mantle 30, Moose Skowron 23, Ellie Howard 21 and rookie Tim Lincecum 20.

Potters Sixth At Pittsburgh

The East Liverpool High Cross Country team came romping home sixth in a field of 19 Saturday.

The triumph belonged to Roger Penske, a slightly built sales engineer from Philadelphia, who won the 77-lap event before a crowd of 76,400 at Riverside Raceway.

The tragedy struck Paul J. (Pat) Pigott Jr., son of a millionaire and stepson of Director John A. McCone of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. Pigott's Lotus 23 spun out on the 68th lap and slammed into a metal retaining wall. He died three hours later.

Pigott, 37, was the first driver to lose his life in the five-year history of this race.

The 25-year-old Penske, who finished fourth here last year, drove a specially built Zerez-Duralite with a Coventry Climax motor. He led in 56 of the 77 laps. The victory brought him $9,250, plus a new car.

He said he never did open up his motor all the way.

Nevertheless, he averaged 95.6 miles per hour, fastest in the history of the race.

Pigott had to be cut from the wreckage of his car. He was taken to nearby March Air Force Base hospital. Death apparently resulted from internal injuries.

Only a small part of the crowd saw the fatal crash. Pigott's wife, Virginia, was in the pits. She was hospitalized later in a state of shock.

The couple had three children.

Wheeling Falls To Grand Rapids

Grand Rapids surprised the Wheeling Ironmen Sunday with a 24-7 victory at Wheeling before 7,753 — the largest single game crowd this season.

As the United Football League reached the half-way point in its second season, only Indianapolis remained unbeaten, romping to a 40-14 decision over Toledo to keep its record clean; previously winless Cleveland won an aerial battle with Columbus, downing the eastern division leaders 42-34, and Louisville posted the first shutout of the year with a 39-0 conquest of hapless Chicago, still without a victory.

There are 460 colleges and universities in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Three new professors at Brandeis University have been appointed to key athletic positions. Myer Fisher is the new athletic director; Heinz Lubasz, soccer coach, and Emmanuel Flumere, golf coach.

NEW YORK YANKEES' pitcher Whitey Ford winds up during Sunday's workout at Modesto, Calif., a 100-mile trip from Candlestick Park. Both teams worked out Sunday at Modesto finally finding a dry spot on the West Coast. Postponed for the last two days, the sixth game of the World Series was almost certain to be played today. As Series Moved To Modesto

Mick, Mays Seen Through Honest-To-Gosh Knotholes

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — It's been a long time since anyone watched Mickey Mantle and Willie Mays through honest-to-gosh knotholes in an outfield fence.

But dozens of fresh faced youngsters in Modesto did just that as the rain-wracked World Series between the San Francisco Giants and the New York Yankees moved here for a few hours Sunday.

Shortly after Commissioner Ford Frick postponed the sixth series game for the third time Sunday morning because San Francisco's Candlestick Park was soaked from weekend rains, the Giants and Yankees decided to descend on relatively dry Modesto for practice sessions.

Neither team had been able to stretch its muscles since the fifth game in New York last Wednesday.

By the time the Yankees took the field, all the 2,500 seats in the neat little ballpark were filled

Tragedy Mars Grand Prix

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Triumph and tragedy, frequent companions in auto racing, were united again Sunday in the 200 mile Grand Prix for sports cars.

The triumph belonged to Roger Penske, a slightly built sales engineer from Philadelphia, who won the 77-lap event before a crowd of 76,400 at Riverside Raceway.

The tragedy struck Paul J. (Pat) Pigott Jr., son of a millionaire and stepson of Director John A. McCone of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. Pigott's Lotus 23 spun out on the 68th lap and slammed into a metal retaining wall. He died three hours later.

Baltimore Hands Browns 36-14 Loss; Steelers Surprise Giants

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Green Bay Packers ably demonstrated they can get the job done even without the services of Paul Hornung, but it's doubtful the Washington Redskins would still be riding high were it not for their clutch combo of Norm Snead and Bobby Mitchell.

Hornung, the National Football League's scoring leader and an all-around star for the defending champion Packers, was forced to sit out the second half of the Packers' 48-21 victory over the Minnesota Vikings Sunday, but Snead and Mitchell were all present and accounted for in St. Louis.

The two live-wires of the still-unbeaten 'Skins provided the clutch plays that helped Washington gain a 17-17 tie with the St. Louis Cardinals and keep first place in the Eastern Conference. Snead's 36-yard pass to Mitchell set up Bobby Khyat's 29-yard field goal with only 13 seconds to play.

The tie enabled the amazing 'Skins to run their record to three victories and two ties. The Pittsburgh Steelers upset New York 20-17 and tied the Giants for second place, each with a 3-2 record.

With its easy victory over the winless Vikings, Green Bay stayed ahead of the Detroit Lions, who took a 13-10 decision over Los Angeles. Green Bay is 5-0, Detroit 4-1.

In other Sunday action, Baltimore surprised the Cleveland Browns 36-14 as Johnny Unitas threw three touchdown passes; the San Francisco 49ers won their third straight, beating Chicago 34-27; and the Dallas Cowboys

An insurance tally was pushed across by Crestview in the third quarter when Cresanto tallied from the one.

Blanda Passes Oilers Back To First Place

By The Associated Press
The Houston Oilers are back in their accustomed spot, first place in the American Football League's eastern division, and George Blanda is back—period.

Blanda, the seemingly ageless Oilers' quarterback who has led them to two straight AFL championships threw six touchdown passes Sunday as Houston routed the sagging New York Titans 56-17.

It was old hat for Blanda though for he's been a spark ever since taking over the helm for Houston in 1960. But more important (the feat sent Houston in front in the eastern division) getting the edge on Boston, a 27-7 loser Friday night to the Dallas Texans.

In the only other AFL game Sunday, Denver kept its western division-leading pace, riding Gene Mingo's 17-points to a 23-6 victory over Oakland.

Blanda, who has now thrown 14 TD passes for the Oilers this year, hit Bill Groman for 12 and 54 yards, Bob McLeod with two others of 25 and 10 yards, one of 13 yards to Dave Smith and another to Charlie Hennigan for 20 yards.

Dick Christy's 58-yard punt return, Ed Cooke's recovery of a fumbled punt in the end zone and Bill Shockley's 40-yard field goal got the Titans' points. New York is now 2-4.

Of the top 15 National League sluggers of 1961, only one played for another team in 1962. Left fielder Frank Thomas went from Milwaukee to the New York Mets.

Warren Routs United, 34-0

WARREN — Warren St. Mary's posted its fifth victory in six games by trouncing United Local, 34-0, Saturday night.

The loss was the fourth in six outings for the Golden Eagles of Ray Russell.

Bud O'Hara tallied twice on runs of 11 and 1 to spark the Warren eleven. O'Hara's two touchdowns came in the first period and St. Mary's went on to tally in every quarter.

3 Days To Complete

H.S. Baseball Game

GREELEY, Colo. (AP) — It took three days to settle a high school baseball game and weather had nothing to do with it. Valley High of Gilcrest and College High of Greeley clashed in a seven-inning game.

At the end one score book showed Gilcrest ahead 11-10, but another had College High leading 10-9. By that time it was dark.

The eventual decision was that Gilcrest was ahead 11-10 but College High was entitled to one more turn at bat. Three days later the teams met again and in 15 minutes the Gilcrest pitcher retired three enemy batters to preserve the victory.

Mrs. Hugh Black was named president-elect for 1963-64 during the society's annual meeting this weekend. Vic Donahue of Columbus is this year's president, attorney Charles V. Schwenker of Columbus is secretary and Dr. James B. Johnson Jr. of Newark is treasurer.

Among those honored for long service by being named honorary directors was Fred A. Beckdolt of Lexington. Dr. Walter A. Zaugg of Bowling Green was named "man of the year," the first time the society has made such a designation.

Globe Brick Gives Stand In Employee Statement

Winston A. Porter, president of Globe Brick Co., today presented a public statement on rejection of a proposition made by Local 647 of the International Brick and Clay Workers Union for arbitration of five issues involved in the local's strike.

Copies of the two-page statement have been distributed to 226 employees of the Newell plant on strike since Sept. 1.

The statement of the company president follows in part:

"The company has given very thorough consideration to arbitration of the differences between the company and the union, a possible course of action which would result in a resumption of work by the employees. We believe that the employees are entitled to know why the company has concluded that it would be contrary to the interests of all concerned to arbitrate these issues.

"In the first place, the terms under which an individual performs work for the company are matters of concern to the individual, the union, and the company; and we do not want to put control of those terms in the hands of an outsider. Any outsider would be unfamiliar with the operations of the company and the practices which have been in effect.

"Secondly, one of the union's demands has been for the creation of jobs (at present, the union is demanding that three jobs be created), each of which the company believes to be unnecessary.

"The issue here is whether the company shall, as in the past, determine what jobs are needed, or can the union control the operation of the plant and force the company to create or keep jobs which the company believes are not necessary.

"There are important distinctions between these three jobs which the union now insists the company create and other jobs which have been discussed during negotiations.

"However, under the conditions, existing at this time, there is no need to have additional employees to perform any of the jobs which the union presently is insisting that the company create. To put individuals into such jobs would be to create unnecessary work and would be grossly wasteful. It should also be added that the company is not trying to have laborers perform the work of more highly - paid employees. An employee will be paid at the rate which is proper for the work which he is instructed to do.

"From time-to-time business requirements will cause the abolition of jobs or the creation of new jobs. In almost every industry the employer determines what jobs are needed, what work is to be done, and how it is to be performed. The company must operate in the most efficient manner possible in order to try to earn a profit which will provide a return on the money supplied by the investors, will enable the company to keep abreast of competition by maintaining a modern and efficient plant, and will make it able to maintain wage scales and fringe benefits at least on a par with those of its competitors.

"The company does not believe that an arbitrator would give the union the control of jobs which it is demanding. However, it is impossible to predict absolutely what an arbitrator might decide, and the result of an unfavorable decision on this point would be so disastrous that no risk of this, however small, could be justified.

"While the present demand is for three jobs, in the future the demand might be for 30. The union wants to create as many jobs as it can, but the consequences of having unnecessary jobs are reduction in profits, weakening of the company, and exposing the employees to the risk of having much fewer or low wages and fringe benefits in the future.

"The company earnestly desires a resumption of operations and a resolution of the differences remaining. This is not only because the company's purpose is to manufacture and sell bricks but also because it has a responsibility to its employees and wishes to see them enjoying a high standard of living. For these reasons we have suggested that work be resumed under the terms of the old contract plus all of the improvements on which agreement has already been reached, while representatives of the company and the union continue to negotiate. But the union representatives have refused the company's suggestion.

"We believe our offer to the union has been fair. The company can not and will not give up the control of the operations and the rights of management to decide what jobs will be worked. The union has shown no indication of any consideration of the points at issue. No further meetings are scheduled."

Long Session Ends

Political Debate Begins On Record Of Congress

By LARRY OSIUS
WASHINGTON (AP)—The 87th Congress sputtered to adjournment over the weekend, signaling the beginning of a political tug of war over its record that will continue through the Nov. 6 general election.

During its longest session since 1951, Congress gave President Kennedy part of what he asked, considerably altered some of his requests, and completely blanked the administration on three major programs.

Congress supported the president on his foreign policy requests.

In addition it gave him substantially what he asked for in the Reciprocal Trade Expansion Act, aid for depressed areas, manpower retraining program, postal rate and federal employee pay increases and increased minimum wages.

His incentive tax exemption, and strict farm production control programs were approved in part.

But Congress turned a deaf ear to administration requests for federal aid to schools and colleges, health insurance for the aged financed through higher social security taxes and establishment of a department of urban affairs.

The final week saw Congress trying desperately to pass a comparatively few appropriation and authorization measures in the face of a revived prestige battle between the House and Senate.

Sunday, less than 24 hours after both houses adjourned, the Republican leaders issued a statement blasting the 87th as a Congress which accomplished little and mismanaged much.

In the statement Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and his House counterpart, Charles Halleck of Indiana, placed much of the blame on Kennedy.

They said Kennedy saddled Congress with too many requests, most of which were aimed at "spending more money or concentrating more power in the federal government."

Whatever else may be said of the 87th, it was the third largest spender in congressional history with a total of $101.3 billion appropriated for current and future fiscal years. This was exceeded only by the wartime $147 billion of 1942 and $115 billion of 1943.

Still, this year's total was about $3.8 billion less than Kennedy had asked.

The question of house-senate prestige was very much in evidence in the closing days.

Does the House have the exclusive right to initiate appropriations measures? The House said yes, the Senate said no.

The hassle reached a climax Friday when Rep. Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., veteran House Appropriations Committee chairman, demanded a roll call in an attempt to defeat a $205,000 survey item which the Senate had tacked onto the $5-billion public works appropriation measure.

Cannon lost the vote, but it disclosed what house leaders had tried to avert: all week—lack of a quorum due to the exodus home of members anxious to get started on their election campaigns.

Leaders of both houses hammered out a compromise late Friday night.

The House passed the $5-billion public works appropriation measure, but sidetracked a $550-million supplemental appropriation, which included funds for increased pensions for retired federal employees. Cannon had vowed to block the latter measure by a parliamentary maneuver.

Truck Purchase Offers Planned

Calcutta volunteer firemen will meet tonight at 8 in the station to open bids for a new fire truck that will be ordered soon.

Eight members of the department attended the annual fire school Saturday morning at Crucible Steel Co. in Midland, with demonstrations of equipment featured.

They were Robert White, Norman Neal, Paul Miller, Keith Clark, Paul Knox, Richard White, Art Smith and Ray Neidengard.

Neidengard reported 75 attended the chicken cookout held Saturday from 4 to 6 p. m. at the fire pavilion for firemen, the auxiliary and their families.

Plans were made to hold another picnic next year as a part of the department's recreational program. Dale Horgan, Neal, Robert Dunn and Carl Pickering assisted in cooking the chicken.

Three teen-age musicians furnished music for dancing in the fire hall after the picnic.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: For the other women who insist on smoking and burning holes in their dresses. . . Trim the burned threads with small scissors. Be careful — the smaller the hole the easier it is to hide it. Cut a matching piece of the material from a seam or the hem, slightly larger than the hole itself.

I cut an even larger piece of adhesive tape or iron-on tape and place the patch on it, on the underneath side of the material. Place the matching piece of material over the hole and press lightly with a warm iron. With a little care it will last through many hand washings and ironings for the life of my dresses.

Crusty Problem

DEAR HELOISE My problem is how to keep bread from becoming stale. There are only two of us and I buy three loaves at a time so that I don't have to go to the store so often.

I keep the loaves in my bread box. By the time we use the last two loaves they are stale and hard. Sometimes one even has mold on it.

We cannot afford to waste food but neither can I go to the store three times a week. Can anyone help us?

RETIRE

Anyone know how to keep bread for a week when they don't have a deep freezer? If so write to Heloise in care of The Repository. I am sure there are bachelors who would like this answer too!

HELOISE

Nylon Tip
DEAR HELOISE: I feel sure that if you print my letter it will help not only the housewife, but the working girl. Sometimes we get down to our last pair of nylons without runners! Did you know that you could take your stockings off, wash them and rinse them, shake them very hard while holding them about midway where the knee area is, then all you have to do is put them between a bath towel and rub as if you were polishing a table?

These nylons can be put back on immediately. After this is done, I walk around for a few minutes before putting on my shoes.

C.G.

Nope! I did not know this. But I tried it and you are right. You are an angel for sharing this tip.

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE: Tell me why on why do women go to all the work to hang a sheet up by the hem? I put the sheet on the line like I would put a blanket on a horse. . . and I cannot see how but it dries all right!

GRANDPA

Tasty Toast

DEAR HELOISE: When making French toast I sprinkle a little cinnamon in with the egg. This makes the dish have a delicious flavor.

Put a drop of liquid smoke in your baked beans and taste the difference! I use a dash of minced onion, a third of a cup of sugar, a third of a cup of catsup and a can of pork and beans.

Police Check On 6 Mishaps

East Liverpool police investigated six minor weekend mishaps in which no one was hurt. A 1957 model station wagon driven by John P. Williams, 17, struck a parked 1960 two-door sedan owned by Duane F. Archer, 50, of 1263 Erie St., Sunday at 2:21 p.m. on Erie St., officers said.

The 17-year-old's father said he was teaching his son to drive and the boy came too close to the Archer auto while driving west on Erie St., striking it on the rear. There was damage to the entire front end of the Williams car, police said. The youth was examined at City Hospital and released.

A mishap at Pennsylvania Ave. and State St. Sunday at 5 a.m. involved a 1956 sedan driven by Theodore Bowyer, 19, of Burgettstown, Pa., and a 1953 sedan operated by David K. Dunn, 25, of Calcutta, officers said. There was damage to the right rear of the Bowyer car and the left front of the Dunn auto, police said.

A mishap on College St. near E. 5th St. Saturday at 4:30 p.m. involved a 1962 model truck driven by Melvin B. Snuffer Jr. of Massillon and a parked 1951 model auto owned by Charles Glass of Wellsville R. D. 1, officers said. The trucker said he pulled over to allow a car to pass and caught the bumper of the parked car.

A collision at Dresden Ave. and Trentvale St. Saturday at 7:25 p.m. damaged a 1960 four-door sedan driven by I. J. Jagodzinski, 61, of Bethel Park, Pa., and a 1961 two-door sedan operated by Betty McKernan, 42, of 1452 Dresden Ave., officers said.

Unfamiliar with the road, the Pennsylvania man went off Dresden Ave. and hit the McKernan car, which was traveling south on Trentvale, officers said.

A mishap on St. Clair Ave. near Broadway Saturday involved a 1956 sedan driven by Mary E. Gibas, 930 Grant St., Newell, and a 1947 pickup truck driven by Leslie R. Beagle, 36, of Glenmoor, officers said.

Anthony J. Ross of Industry R. D. 1 told police his 1957 sedan was damaged by a hit-skip vehicle while parked on Broadway Saturday morning.

$650 Guitar Recovered; Police Probe Burglaries

A $650 guitar and another musical instrument worth $400, stolen from a downtown music store Thursday night or Friday morning, were returned to the owner late Saturday night by an East Liverpool man who said he had purchased them in a tavern for $45, police reported.

John Celli, proprietor of Celli Music Center on St. Clair Ave., told police the property was returned to him by William L. McCoy, 306 Broadway, who said he purchased the instruments from a unidentified man in Sandy's Tavern Thursday night.

In addition to the unique double-necked guitar, the stolen property included a "sideman," a device which furnishes percussion for any musical instrument. It was valued at $400.

Celli said he received a call to meet a man at a service station at E. 6th and Broadway in connection with the property stolen from his store. He said he went to the spot and met McCoy, who took him to his home on Broadway and turned over the two instruments.

McCoy told Celli his employer knew McCoy had purchased the two instruments, which were described in an account of the burglary in The Review Saturday. The employer suggested McCoy contact Celli and find if the two instruments were those taken from the store, he related.

McCoy said he did not know the name of the person from whom he purchased the instruments. Both were undamaged, Celli told police. Celli, McCoy and McCoy's employer went to police headquarters at 11 p.m. Saturday to explain the instruments had been returned, police said.

Meanwhile, officers are investigating a "wave" of minor week-end burglaries and thefts.

Mrs. Darrell Wilson, 818 River view St., told police her pocketbook was stolen Saturday at 11:15 p.m. in Sandy's Tavern. It contained $10, a credit card and a wallet, she said. The purse was found discarded in Green Ln., officers said.

Rose Hoskins, 305 E. 2nd St., told police a theft entered her home between 9 p.m. Saturday and 4 a.m. Sunday and stole $30 in cash — two $10 bills and two $5's. In her home were found trousers which Howard Ferguson, 313 Broadway, reported stolen from his parked car between 8 p.m. Saturday and 1 a.m. Sunday, police said.

Ferguson said a woman's housecoat also was stolen from his car. The thief apparently looted Ferguson's car first, then left the trousers in the Hoskins home, police said.

Mrs. Ethel M. Green, 614 John St., reported Sunday night an intruder entered her home via an unlocked rear door and stole a wallet containing $14, some change and a Social Security card.

Ernie Cross, 109 W. 2nd St., told police his home was looted while he was absent between 1 and 3 a.m. Sunday. The intruder took a small pistol, a small safe containing papers, old coins and a small sum of money, some change from the top of a dresser, a pocket knife and a man's diamond ring, he said.

Jack Bell of R. D. 1 told police at 1:50 p.m. Saturday a gasoline tank cap was stolen from his 1962 model car between 7 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Friday while it was parked on a lot at the Hall China Co.

Boys Give Mother Expert Help

One time I said in this column that I would like to learn of a boy 10 years old who faithfully took care of a pet for a year without urging or prompting by anybody.

One mother wrote to tell me in detail how her son, nine, did so. Then she also told of other responsibilities shouldered by this lad and his brother, 11.

Of this elder boy, she wrote: "If I have to be away from home, he will get supper and do a good job of it. I can leave the baby girl, three, with him and he will watch her very carefully. He has read every book on his bookshelves and has always been crazy over books. He reads to the baby now. Both boys do well in school."

"BOTH BOYS iron their everyday clothes, the pillow cases and handkerchiefs every week and have for two years now."

"After school, one boy stays home to help me if I need him. The next night, the other one stays."

"They peel potatoes, pick up toys, set the table, run down to the basement, and play with the baby. They both can and do wash and dry the dishes. They can mix and bake any kind of drop cookies following my recipes. They can make cocoa, coffee, tea, toast or cook eggs. I am sick often and they take over with the baby and meals."

"On Saturdays they help clean the house. They pick up and I sweep with a broom (we don't have a sweeper). They dust and mop the floors. They help me can food in the summer. We can about 200 quarts of fruit and vegetables. Their daddy does any or all these things, too, when he is home."

"I do all our sewing and every spare minute is used at the sewing machine. I make my clothes, the baby's, the boys' and my husband's pajamas and our pillow cases and sheets, as well as mending."

"I HAVE THE boys help because I think they need the training. They don't have any outdoor work to do, so if they don't help me they don't have any work at all."

"There's a six-year-old girl across the street who has to stay in bed and keep quiet. At my suggestion, our boys have been taking turns reading to her and playing quietly with her and have done so for more than a month.

"They have missed only two times since they started. They take that responsibility themselves, too. The boys are not paid for this and don't expect any reward."

It's refreshing to read about children growing up to take so much responsibility.

My bulletins, "Responsibility" and "How To Teach Your Child To Help At Home," may be had by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

The famous Blue Hole spring, near Castalia, Ohio, has a visibility depth of about 50 to 60 feet, but its real depth is unknown. This spring produces 7,519 gallons of water a minute with a constant temperature of 43 degrees, winter or summer. The flow of water is not affected by floods or drought. The water is devoid of air, and fish cannot live in it until it is aerated by passing over falls.

Junior Editors Quiz on ANIMALS

QUESTION: Why can't a giraffe make any sound?

ANSWER: Actually, giraffes are not completely voiceless. Zoo keepers and hunters have heard them make mooring sounds at certain times. But it is true that the giraffe rarely uses his voice, and the reason is that his voice box, or "larynx," where sound is produced in animals and men, is poorly developed. But then the giraffe does not need such an ability. As our artist suggests, he is talented in other ways. His eyesight, hearing and sense of smell are all very keen and from the lofty position where he holds his head, he can look far away (A) and see danger before it comes too close. Then, too, his checkerboard body pattern makes him difficult to see under certain conditions (B). He can outgallop most horses, making up to 35 miles an hour. Giraffes also run by "pacing," moving the legs of the same side forward and back at the same time (C). Lastly, (D), a giraffe can fight. He has dynamite in all four feet and he can swing that long neck as if it were a huge club. His head can deliver a blow of tremendous force.

FOR YOU TO DO: Backbones in men and higher animals are formed of small bones, the "vertebra," which also go up the neck. Make a guess as to how many vertebra there might be in a giraffe's neck. 18, 20, 25? You've guessed wrong. There are 7, exactly the same number you will find in a mouse's neck.

Bety Meany of Newport News, Va., wins $10 for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.

Today's highlight in history: On this day in 1872, 19 members of the Polar Arctic Expedition commanded by George Tyson accidentally were set adrift on an ice floe. They were rescued six months later by a sealing ship off the coast of Labrador after they had drifted approximately 1,800 miles.

turned from his first American voyage.

In 1851, Gold was discovered in Melbourne, Australia.

In 1890, the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers was founded at Pittsburgh.

In 1941, Japan announced agreement with Russia fixing the frontier between Manchukuo and outer Mongolia—ending a dispute which had touched off fighting two years earlier.
